Open Space Plan Given To Fairfax

By NELS JOHNSON

A 61-page open space plan containing a myriad of proposals for Fairfax has been submitted to town officials by a San Francisco consulting firm.

The preliminary document drafted by consultants Wallace, McHarg, Roberts and Todd will be considered at 8 p.m. today in the Fairfax Women's Club by the town planning commission.

The document recommends that a broad swath of the town's core, including the commercial district, be regarded as a "flood plain." Large, undeveloped parcels in the flood plain, apparently including Max Friedman's Marin Town and Country Club tract, should be preserved for "low-intensity uses and open space," like golf courses and parks, according to the plan.

The plan also recommends that no development be allowed within 20 feet of any creek or stream bank in the town and urges that "stream courses on private property which have historically had public access should have this access legally secured on a permanent basis."

The plan recommends that development of slope and ridgeline areas be required to undergo strict "design review," urges that new construction not obscure distinctive vistas, and proposes preservation of scenic redwood stands and a broad flood improvement study of the town.

In addition, the consultants urge that Bolinas Road and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard, among others, be designated as scenic highways requiring landscaping and 25-foot setbacks for new development.

The plan is based on 10 goals, including preservation of open space greenbelts and conformance with the Marin County General Plan, and sets as objectives the preservation of open space for protection of the public health and natural and cultural environments.

The report states that there are 75 "development prone" acres of open space within town limits, and 166 acres of similar open space in the Fairfax planning area, and urges that priority open space acquisitions include scenic ridgeline corridors, lands adjacent to stream courses and scenic vistas.

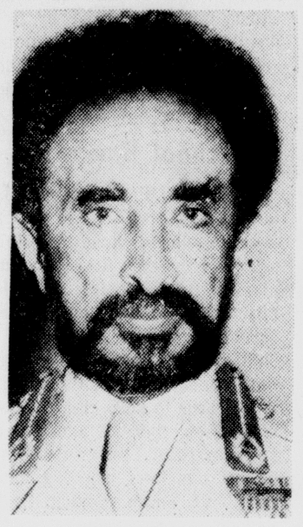

The report, however, does not include a ranking of various parcels within "development prone" open space areas, nor does it include the costs of proposals it makes, aside from a broad estimate that "any program of land purchase by Fairfax would probably involve land costing about $1,500 an acre."

The report also declares that prime open spaces in the Fairfax planning area total about 554 acres and estimates the lands would cost about $500,000, although the document notes the price tag is "grossly hypothetical."

Implicit in the report is a suggestion that Fairfax acquire some property through outright purchase, perhaps by floating a bond issue. The report, while noting any local tax hike would be opposed by residents, states that a 10-cent tax per $100 of assessed valuation would raise $278,000 for open space acquisition.

The report, drafted for a fee of $14,750, also calls for hiring a town planner. The report includes 13 land use "data" maps.

The Fairfax Town Council last April slapped a moratorium on local building pending adoption of an open space plan. The ban has been extended to Nov. 8.

HAILE SELASSIE
43 years as emperor

Selassie Reported Deposed

LONDON (UPI) — Emperor Haile Selassie was peacefully deposed today from the throne of Ethiopia he had occupied for 43 years, U.S. Embassy sources said.

They said a cabled message from the U.S. Embassy in Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital, warned travellers to stay away from the country because of the 82-year-old emperor's downfall.

But they said the message did not indicate Selassie's whereabouts.

Troops under the command of the Ethiopian Armed Forces Committee — which already had stripped Selassie of the power he wielded absolutely until seven months ago — were deployed at key points in Addis Ababa, the embassy report said.

The city was quiet, but an evening curfew had been imposed, it said.

The embassy said Addis Ababa airport was closed and warned travellers against trying to enter the country for the time being, the sources said.

Selassie, known as "The Conquering Lion of Judah," has been under virtual house arrest in the palace the Armed Forces Committee confiscated and renamed the National Palace.

His daughter, Princess Tenagne-Work, was arrested yesterday. Western diplomats in Addis Ababa said other arrests of members of the emperor's family were expected.

Selassie's position as an absolute monarch, the latest in a 3,000-year-old Ethiopian line, was drastically altered by a draft constitution introduced last month.

It converted his throne to that of a figurehead constitutional monarch, transferring power to an elected parliament. Selassie had opposed certain provisions of the proposed constitution, presented by Prime Minister Lij Michael Imru.

The draft constitution climaxed a six-month "coup by degrees" by the Armed Forces Committee. Nearly 200 politicians, businessmen and relatives of Selassie were arrested by the armed forces during six months of unrest and rebellion.

Selassie was stripped of his wealth within Ethiopia. Yesterday the Armed Forces Committee complained it was unable to trace, much less recover, billions of dollars allegedly controlled by the emperor abroad.

Its nationwide broadcast charged Selassie with illegally depositing vast sums in Swiss and other banks abroad, using numbered accounts and the names of other persons.

The committee said some estimates put Selassie's wealth abroad as high as $10 billion.

Ford Planning No Pardons In Cover-Up

Any Action Will Come Only After The Trial

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford does not intend to pardon the defendants in the Watergate cover-up case before their trial, a White House spokesman said today.

John W. Hushen, deputy White House news secretary, also told reporters that Ford has denied as "absolutely not true" any reports that he indicated to former President Nixon before his resignation that he would be pardoned.

"There was no communication regarding a pardon for Mr. Nixon," Hushen said.

Hushen was asked whether Ford agreed with Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott that the Watergate defendants should not be pardoned prior to a trial.

"I believe he does," Hushen replied. "The President feels that way."

"There was never any intention on our part that the Watergate defendants were about to be pardoned and especially not prior to the trial," Hushen said.

He told reporters that no requests for pardon had been received at the White House from those charged with Watergate related crimes.

"If we got one I believe he (Ford) wouldn't act on it," Hushen said.

Scott, after a morning meeting with Ford, said there appears to be a "unanimous feeling" in Congress that there should be no interference with impending Watergate cases.

"I don't know of any congressman or senator who wants a blanket pardon at this time," Scott said after a 1-½ hour meeting with President Ford at the White House. "I don't think the American people want any blanket pardons."

White House spokesman John W. Hushen said yesterday that contrary to interpretations of his earlier remarks Ford "never, ever planned to give mass amnesty" for any Watergate figures and "it was never under study."

Pardons on an individual basis might be considered if requested by the defendants, Hushen said. As of yesterday there had been no such requests.

"I have made no such request," said John J. Wilson, attorney for H. R. Haldeman, one of the former White House aides who is to go on trial Sept. 30 on Watergate cover-up charges. "But I haven't excluded from my mind considering it and talking to Mr. Haldeman about it."

Ellsberg: 'Invisible Government' Exists

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Daniel Ellsberg, who released the Pentagon Papers, said today that an "invisible government," including the Central Intelligence Agency, exists in Washington outside congressional control.

A surprise panelist at an unofficial conference on CIA operations, Ellsberg said the secret "40 committee" reports to the president on policy and intelligence matters and the president in turn makes decisions without consulting Congress.

"The true meaning of the '40 committee' is that there is indeed a covert operation exercising sovereign and domestic powers," he said. "It is in fact an 'invisible government.' There should be congressional oversight."

The "40 committee" was cited repeatedly in opening remarks by panelists, including former CIA, Defense and State Department officials, and researchers and journalists concerned with the intelligence field.

Government spokesmen have admitted the existence of the committee, which is chaired by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and includes CIA Director William E. Colby and one member each from the State Department and the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

The committee's recommendations, which must be unanimous, are relayed to the President for a decison. If the recommended operation is covert, the orders are relayed back to the CIA for action.

August Price Index Registers 3.5% Hike

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government reported today the wholesale price index for August climbed 3.5 per cent above the July level. When the prices were adjusted for seasonal variations, it was the second highest monthly jump in nearly 28 years.

The large August increase pushed the wholesale price index to 167.4, which was 17.8 per cent above a year ago, the Labor Department said.

Industrial commodities — up 2.4 per cent for the month and 27.5 per cent ahead of last year — accounted for the major part of the price index rise.

The prices of metals, chemicals, machinery and pulp and paper groups accounted for about 80 per cent of the increase in industrial commodities, according to the Bureau of Labor Statistics. The August advance in farm products and processed foods and feeds prices was 6.2 per cent.

After prices on all commodities were adjusted for seasonal variations, the increase was 3.9 per cent for August, the highest since August, 1973 when the increase was 6.2 per cent and the second highest since November, 1946.

The 3.5 per cent increase was

Cool Breeze Cuts County Temperature

Fog, crisp breezes and mist rolled into many areas of the two counties, bringing relief from the hot weather of the past two days.

It will be overcast along the coast for part of today and tomorrow, extending inland night and morning, according to the weatherman. He predicted sunny afternoons with mild temperatures from the 60s to the low 80s for the next few days.

Thermometer watchers reported that the mercury soared to 101 degrees in Marinwood yesterday making it one of the counties' "hot spots."

Other high temperatures: Sausalito, 88; Novato, 98; Woodacre, 95; Petaluma, 99, and San Rafael, 90.

STOPS IN SAUSALITO

Paddler Loves His Life

By PAUL LIBERATORE

Larry Capune bounded around the Sausalito Yacht Club this morning in a pair of red nylon swimming trunks, unaffected by the chill overcast and north wind.

All he could think about was getting started again on a sea voyage that began 27 days ago in Brookings, Ore., and would take him to San Diego, 1,200 miles.

Nothing particularly unusual about it if he were sailing a well-appointed sloop or motor cruiser, but Capune's vessel is a 17-foot-long paddleboard powered by nothing more than his two arms.

"I care about America," said Capune, 32, blonde, blue-eyed, tanned, well muscled, a living example of the stereotypical California golden boy. "I care about the kids. I'm trying to set a positive example that young people can do something different as well as positive within the laws and values of our country.

"It's what you do with what you've got that counts," he continued, looking like Robert Redford. "I'm trying to incorporate the good aspects of this country's founding ideals. The means justifies the end."

The end in this case is San Diego and a new West Coast paddling record. He holds the current record, he says, 554 miles in 17 days from San Francisco to Newport Beach, his hometown, in 1967.

Capune is 12 days behind schedule, the result of wind and unpredictable weather, but remains undaunted despite nursing a sore shoulder, which a deer pounced on while he slept beside a coastal stream.

Ironically, the deer caused more damage than the maneating white shark he encountered while paddling at the mouth of Tomales Bay. "It went under the board, made a few passes, but didn't bother me. I mean it bothered me, but it didn't hurt me, like swallow me with one bite.

"Coming into Bolinas Beach yesterday," he went on, "I was met by a bunch of nude girls, selling me zucchini bread, by the way. It was good, the zucchini bread, I mean."

Capune has made several long distance paddles, including the world record, Boston to Miami, 2,444 miles in 110 days, in 1972. During the trip, he stayed with the Kennedy family for two days.

It was during the Democratic convention, three days after the Watergate breakin and on the TV-program it was reported that Capune was the only registered Republican at the Kennedy compound.

"When that information came over the TV," he recalled, Sergeant Shriver's wife asked, 'Why didn't you tell us?' 'You didn't ask,' I told her. But Ted was cool about it."

He plans to drop in on another political notable, whose house in San Clemente happens to be the last residence for many miles before Oceanside. "Why not," Capune said. "The Nixons are an American family. Why should I discriminate. They'll be hospitable. They can call it getting back to domestic affairs."

Capune paddles eight to 10 hours a day, two to five miles offshore. His only protection is a wet suit. He stops onshore at night, preferring "to stay with families so I can be a positive example for the children." He arrived in Sausalito yesterday afternoon.

He neither smokes nor drinks and stays in shape by paddling. He earns a small income telling school assemblies about his trips.

"If we must have crutches, they may as well be positive crutches," he said, looking through the morning fog toward the St. Francis Yacht Club in San Francisco, where he had hoped to get by noon until the wind and tides of the bay delayed him.

No Injuries In Cruise Ship Fire

KEY WEST, Fla. (UPI) — The cruise ship Cunard Ambassador, en route to New Orleans to pick up passengers, caught fire in the Florida straits today and 240 crewmen fled over the side in lifeboats, leaving 50 men aboard to fight the blaze.

There were no passengers aboard the two-year-old cruise ship and the Coast guard said there were no reports of injuries or fatalities.

The Coast guard said the 240 crewmembers who abandoned the 486-foot luxury liner in nine boats all were picked up safely by the Navy cargo ship Tallulah.

Houses Destroyed

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

India Famine

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — Mobs of starving West Bengalis combed the countryside searching for food today after one of the worst famines in history hit seven of the state's districts, police said.

Relief workers said the famine situation in the districts approached the severity of the great 1943-44 Bengal famine, when 4 million persons starved to death.

The state government opened free kitchens and cheap canteens in the affected areas and urged the relief organizations to help in the program.

No Agreement

NICOSIA (UPI) — Greek and Turkish Cypriot leaders have failed to reach an agreement on a general exchange of prisoners but said they would release all prisoners who are sick, wounded or under 18 years old.

President Glafkos Clerides and his vice president, Turkish Cypriot leader Rauf Denktash, said yesterday a date for the exchange will be set at next Friday's meeting.

U.N. sources said the main stumbling block in the talks was a disagreement where the general prisoners should be released. Sources said Clerides wants prisoners released at their place of capture, but Denktash wants the prisoners to decide where they wish to go.

Israeli Stand

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin told U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger Israel would be ready to withdraw deeper into Sinai if Egypt wants to make another interim agreement, a news report said today.

The report, a dispatch from Washington in the Tel Aviv newspaper Ma'ariv, said Kissinger told Rabin yesterday that the United States will act against an Arab move to seat the Palestine Liberation Organization in the United Nations.

Khrushchev Bust

Mrs. Khrushchev, 74, joined family and friends at Novodevichy Cemetery yesterday in paying homage to the former premier on the third anniversary of his death.

She placed a small bouquet of flowers at the base of the imposing eight-foot-high, black granite and white marble monument erected last week. Family members said it was her first look at the completed work.

Mrs. Khrushchev stood before the grave for 20 minutes in a heavy downpour.

Riot Quelled

LOURENCO MARQUES, Mozambique (UPI) — Portuguese commandos put down the last pockets of racial rioting today, ending a pre-independence bloodbath that left an estimated 500 persons dead or wounded.

More than a thousand panicky white settlers fled across the border to South Africa. Many abandoned cars and set out on foot through the jungle to avoid black gangs roaming the colony's roads.

Portugual rushed elite troops into the territory's capital yesterday to put down the five-day-old crisis that began with a white colonist revolt and ended with black rioting.

Within hours, the commandos began to restore order in black shanty towns wracked by two days of violence in which mobs set up roadblocks, stoned and destroyed cars and looted and burned shops almost at will.

School Boycott

BOSTON (UPI) — Thousands of children refused to enter court ordered desegregated schools on the first day of classes today in this historic city, home of the nation's public school system.

There were no reports of serious trouble as parents apparently chose to keep children out of classes, thereby averting a face-to-face confrontation. There was one "shoving incident" at South Boston High School.

Junta Birthday

SANTIAGO (UPI) — Chile's military junta has marked the first anniversary of the violent overthrow of the late President Salvador Allende with an elaborate offer to free thousands of political prisoners.

Gen. Augusto Pinochet, head of the four-man junta, used yesterday's anniversary ceremonies to offer freedom to most political prisoners — but only if Cuba and the Soviet Union release an equal number of dissidents.

The general, who led the Sept. 11, 1973, coup that toppled Allende's Marxist regime, also listed a state of internal war declared a year ago, but left intact a nearly identical state of siege.

Spy Plane Quits In Record Try

MILDENHALL, England (UPI) — A U.S. Air Force SR71 spyplane took off today in an attempt to set a new London-Los Angeles speed record and then had to abandon the attempt because of engine trouble, the Air Force said.

An Air Force spokesman said the SR71 returned to this Royal Air Force base 36 minutes after takeoff. He said another attempt would be made tomorrow.

TODAY'S WORLD

"They say a good scare will cure hiccups, dear — why don't you sit down and watch the news?"

Church Cry For Amnesty Is Growing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A growing number of religious leaders are urging President Ford to grant a "universal and unconditional" amnesty to all those in legal jeopardy because of the war in Vietnam.

The most recent appeal came from four major religious institutions, who told Ford an "amnesty applied universally and unconditionally is a necessary step for healing in the nation."

It came in a letter to the President written by Rev. Theodore Hesburgh, president of Notre Dame; Rabbi Irwin M. Blank, president of the Synagogue Council of America; Rt. Rev. Edmond L. Browning, chief executive of the Episcopal Church's National World Missions agency; and Teresa Hoover, assistant General Secretary of the United Methodist Church's Women's Division.

The four church leaders said if Ford's amnesty proposal excluded certain categories of people or was so strict that few take advantage of it, "our nation would continue to have an exile community and an underground community at home."

Simon Says Utilities Need Help

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Treasury Secretary William E. Simon says electric bills must rise sharply or "the lights will go out" in homes and factories in the next decade.

"We're here to put some very stark facts before the American people," Simon said during a sometimes stormy two-hour meeting with 100 state regulatory commissioners and consumer groups.

Simon said utility companies are running out of money for construction of new plants that will be needed to meet electric power demands over the next 10 years.

He predicted $90 billion would be needed in the next five years alone, with the bulk of the money coming from the sale of stocks and bonds.

Power company profits are so low, he said, that investors have stopped buying utility securities.

He said rates should be increased to provide profits in the 15 per cent range so that more money from higher stock and bond prices will generate the capital needed for expansion.

Utility industry profits were at 11.4 per cent at the end of 1973, but have fallen this year.

Michigan Commissioner William G. Rosenberg said Michigan electric bills in the next 18 months would probably be double what they were in 1972. The rates would be even higher if Simon's proposals were followed.

There were similar comments by other government officials, and they drew sharp opposition from representatives of consumer groups and mixed reactions from some of the 100 state commissioners.

Labor Leaders Take Crack At Ford Economic Policy

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Labor got its chance to take a crack at the Ford administration's economic policies — and did just that.

Union leaders asked for an end to tight money, lower interest rates, a rearrangement of tax priorities, and a rein on the power and profits of big business.

The second of 12 mini-summit meetings on the economy was held yesterday, and again President Ford, by his own choice, was confronted by the critics close up.

A third session, dealing with housing, was scheduled for today in Atlanta.

Ford opened yesterday's conference of labor officials by announcing: "The secretary of labor will immediately disperse $65 million to those communities in which unemployment is highest."

The money would provide jobs in public service projects. Ford also promised an additional $350 million and an estimated "170,000 public service jobs this coming winter."

Most of the administration's proposals had been heard before: cut the budget, hold the line.

Alan Greenspan, chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, said, "It does not appear that the inflation rate is turning down. I would not be surprised if we did not get increases in food prices which we will not like in the months ahead."

Roy Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, explained the problems with cutting the federal budget in areas such as defense and other economic measures with numerous charts.

ROY ASH
Cites budget problems

He was confronted by Murray H. Finley, president of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, who said: "You should put a picture of a kid on the board who is denied a school lunch program, not pictures of charts going up and down."

Jerry Wurf of the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes accused Ash of "doubletalk on the figures."

After the meeting, Wurf said, "The President has surrounded himself with men whose concept is that the way to deal with the problem is to impoverish the poor even further."

The kingpin of the AFL-CIO, George Meany, summed it all up for Ford. The first thing, he said, "is to agree that we are doing something wrong."

Then he discussed what he sees as the wrong things: tight money, high interest rates and plans for "indiscriminate" budget cutting.

Ford left the labor leaders with one promise. "This administration," he said, "will act with compassion. We will not permit the burden of necessary economic restraints to fall on those members of society least able to bear the costs."

In other developments:

A preliminary meeting was to be held tonight in Chicago for the Sept. 13 presummit session on agriculture in Kansas City. Farm and food industry groups are expected to challenge Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz' opposition to export controls on crops.

David Says Nixon In Poor Health

By HELEN THOMAS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — David Eisenhower said today that one of former President Nixon's legs is swollen twice its normal size from phlebitis, an inflammation of the veins, and "his health is not good."

Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law, also said that Nixon would have rejected the pardon offered by President Ford if it had been "tied directly" to the issue of amnesty for Vietnam draft evaders and deserters.

Eisenhower, a law student at George Washington University, said he talked with Nixon by telephone last night and decided to be interviewed on the NBC Today Show because "someone should be reacting to the pardon on behalf of the family."

He said he and his wife, Julie, haven't seen the former President since he resigned his office Aug. 9 and returned to his San Clemente estate.

RICHARD M. NIXON
Phlebitis attack

Eisenhower was asked to comment on reports that Nixon was suffering deep fits of depression.

"I think he has his ups and downs," Eisenhower said. "Some people describe him as being sharper than ever in certain meetings and then at times ... yes he's depressed.

"Right at this very moment he's not feeling well. He has his leg elevated because (of the) phlebitis in his leg ... the clot has moved above the knee and his one leg is swollen about twice its normal size. His health is not good.

"He's fighting that. He can't play golf, he can't relax., he can't unwind and so I would say his spirits are not great right now. There's no question about that . . ."

Speaking of the pardon that was announced by Ford Sunday, Eisenhower said that his father-in-law was "in one sense relieved that the Vietnam amnesty issue had not been tied directly to his pardon.

"Had the amnesty issue been tied directly to his pardon he would have had no choice but to stand trial and he would have done so and refused the pardon."

Eisenhower said he believed that Ford's decision, which has generated massive controversy, "was motivated primarily in what he felt was the best interests of the nation."

He said that Ford may have thought that "he would in someway assist in defusing this as a national issue and enable the country to get on with the country's business."

Both Eisenhower and Nixon's other son-in-law Edward Cox previously were quoted by a friend as saying there has been no elation on the part of Nixon or his family over the pardon.

Eisenhower denied again a published report that his wife personally contacted Ford to plead for a pardon.

He said there's "no logic" in such a course of action by Julie because "I don't believe presidential decisions are made by allowing yourself to respond to the emotional plight theoretically, hypothetically or real of a daughter... Decisions just can't be made that way. I don't think President Ford reached his determination that way."

Eisenhower said he does not know Nixon's stand on granting pardons to everyone involved in the Watergate scandals and he has no opinion himself.

Former White House physician Walter Tkach was reportedly scheduled to fly to California tomorrow to see Nixon because of the family's deep concern over his condition.

Cox and his wife, Nixon's elder daughter Tricia, have been on the phone with the former President, and concern over Nixon's health prompted Cox to speak out without publicly revealing his identity.

Both Cox and David feel it is "better for everyone concerned" if Nixon's problems are aired, the family friend said.

Julie Nixon Eisenhower, David's wife, has continued to insist that her father's spirits are fine and that he is looking forward to making speeches and writing books again.

But David was quoted as saying, "You can't go on saying everything is rosy when it isn't. It probably will be a great relief to him when it comes out."

In his book "Six Crises," Nixon wrote that the worst part of a crisis is the let-down feeling once it is over.

"The easiest period in a crisis situation is actually the battle itself," he wrote.

"The most difficult is the period of indecision — whether to fight or run away. And the most dangerous period is the aftermath.

"It is then, with all his resources spent and his guard down, that an individual must watch out for dulled reactions and faulty judgment."

Pardon Pleas Are Reported

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman pleaded for presidential pardons from President Nixon in the final days before he resigned, but were rejected, the Washington Post reported today.

The Post, basing its story on "informed sources", said Nixon deeply resented the tone and character of the requests.

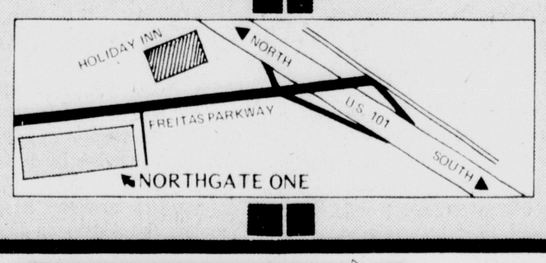

The article said Nixon was particularly resentful about the strenuous nature of Haldeman's plea, described as "threatening" and tantamount to blackmail.

Haldeman's attorney, John J. Wilson was quoted as being unaware of any request by Haldeman, but adding that he wasn't denying it occurred.

Haldeman and Ehrlichman are scheduled to go on trial Sept. 30 for conspiracy in connection with the Watergate cover-up.

Marinwood To Use Fund For School

The Marinwood Community Services District will use part of a $12,000 state grant to restore the Dixie schoolhouse, the district board decided last night.

Secretary Genevieve Bolding said directors voted to spend $2,500 of the money to refurbish the 110-year-old building which has been declared a national historical monument.

In addition to the restoration, the state money is tentatively planned to purchase open space in the Marinwood area and develop recreational facilities on the land, according to Mrs. Bolding.

The Marinwood Community Services District board also:

NEW DIRECTOR — Appointed Doris Overmyer, a member of the Marinwood Parks and Recreation Commission, to a vacancy on the board created by the resignation of Richard H. O'Brien.

TENNIS CLUB — Went on record as supporting the county zoning administrator's decision to deny a permit for a proposed tennis club in Lucas Valley.

MEETING — Postponed its next regular meeting, scheduled for next Monday to next Wednesday night.

Fotomat Store Robbed Of $90

A man claiming to have a gun, held up the Fotomat at 621 Del Ganado, San Rafael, about 6:45 p.m. yesterday and escaped on foot with approximately $90, San Rafael police reported today.

Clerk Janet Mae Donnelly said the man said it was a holdup and she asked if he had a gun. He said he did, but did not produce it, she told police. She started to telephone police, but the man reached through the window and took the money from the cash register, she told police.

He was described as Caucasian, 22 to 25 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall with medium length brown hair and brown eyes. He was wearing light blue pants, light blue shirt and glasses.

On Display

Paintings by Novato artist Girldine F. Merrill are being exhibited during September at the Corte Madera Regional Library, 707 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera. Also on display are baskets and weavings by Janice Weingrod of Corte Madera.

PRICES

the third biggest in the last year. The increase in July was 3.9 per cent and last August it was 5.8 per cent.

The only major groups showing declines were lumber and wood products which have dropped for the fourth consecutive month and hides and skins.

The prices for motor vehicles were slightly higher but do not yet reflect the higher prices posted on new model cars that will be introduced in the fall. All major types of machinery and equipment showed price increases.

The August index for fuels and related products was 67.2 per cent higher than a year ago. Coal was 4 per cent higher than a month ago and coke was 5.6 per cent higher. The price of refined petroleum products gained only 1.9 per cent from July but was 87.2 per cent higher than one year ago.

In the metals only iron and steel scrap declined. Most fabricated metal products increased, especially structural products, metal containers, bolts, nuts, screws, springs and stampings.

Industrial and agricultural chemicals, plastic resins and inedible fats and oils pushed the chemicals index 6.8 per cent higher in August.

In the food grouping there were price declines reported for fresh and processed fish, milled rice, ground coffee, fresh processed milk, flour, nonfat dry milk and broilers and fryers. But generally processed foods and feeds were higher mostly because of increases in animal feeds, fats and oils, sugar and meats.

Measure Taken To Halt Thiefs

RENO (UPI) — Firing mechanisms from 1,400 National Guard weapons have been transferred from armories to local police stations, according to a spokesman for the Nevada National Guard.

Col. Oliver F. Pratt, chief of staff, said Tuesday the mechanisms were transferred to comply with an urgent Pentagon order Friday. He said the move was designed to discourage thefts of National Guard weaponry.

Col. Pratt said the order applies only to the Nevada Army National Guard, not to the Air Guard at the Reno International Airport.

He said the Air Guard was exempted because the airport maintains 24-hour security guards.

Lumber Thief Is Sentenced

A Mendocino County man who stole lumber from a construction site at San Anselmo's Creek Park must spend two days in county jail, Municipal Judge Gary W. Thomas ruled yesterday.

Thomas sentenced Eiji Byron Kurokawa, 32, of Elk, who earlier pleaded guilty to petty theft in the July heist.

Thomas also ordered Kurokawa diverted from prosecution on a charge of possessing marijuana. Police said two bags of the drug were found in his pickup truck, along with lumber from the park.

Appeal Back To Sausalito

An appeal before the Marin County Board of Education Tuesday night was sent back to the Sausalito School District board and not denied, as reported in yesterday's Independent-Journal.

Mr. and Mrs. Allen Stelzner were appealing a tie vote which blocked their son, Peter, from attending school in San Anselmo.

Also, the county school board tabled a proposal to grant an eminence credential to Gene F. Tuttle. The story said the credential was granted.

$575,000 Price Tag For Park

A citizens committee appointed last year to advise the county board of supervisors on creation of a park along Corte Madera Creek in Kentfield last night unanimously approved a $575,000 price tag on the 18 acres.

The Creekside Park Advisory Board's acquiesence to purchase of the land from the Archdiocese of San Francisco at the price negotiated by county officials contained two conditions:

1. That the Army Corps of Engineers not be permitted to dump fill in the creekside marshland.

2. That an existing easement be lifted from the property south of Marin Catholic High School and west of Bon Air Road.

CIA

cording to testimony by Colby before a closed congressional committee this summer.

Critics who want accountability and controls over the CIA called the assembly of a nonofficial panel in a room of a Senate office building.

Sens. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., and Philip Hart, D-Mich, are hosting the conference sponsored by the Center for National Security Studies, a privately financed arm of the Fund for Peace.

It comes as a firestorm is raging about alleged CIA interference in Chile, involving $8 to $11 million in bribery and other measures to frustrate the Marxist regime of President Salvador Allende. He was overthrown by a military junta one year ago and died in the coup, a victim or a suicide.

Colby, addressing what one CIA official said was "certainly not a friendly or sympathetic group," will appear Friday.

In a closed session of the House Armed Services Subcommittee on Intelligence, Colby admitted a CIA multimillion dollar campaign, sanctioned by the Nixon administration, to "destabilize" the Allende regime. There is no evidence that the agency sponsored or took part in the actual coup.

Mediation Board Chooses Member

The two fact-finders in salary negotiations for Marin Community College District teachers yesterday chose a third person to complete the panel, enabling them to go ahead with their study.

Morris Meyer, 50, of Berkeley, a professional arbitrator, was agreed upon by the other two, Edward A. Walker of Berkeley, representing teachers, and John Liebert of Los Angeles, representing trustees.

The panel next will establish a schedule for its meetings.

Negotiations have been bogged down since July, with the teachers asking a 12 per cent pay raise and the trustees offering 8.1 per cent. Fringe benefits also are in dispute.

Activities

The Fairfax Pavilion will be open from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays for recreational activities like volleyball, ping pong and basketball, a town spokesman said today.

PARDON

subsequent announcement that pardons for all Watergate defendants was "under study" set off a wave of protest. A presidential assistant who did not want to be identified said telephone calls of protest were still coming to the White House and the announcement caused "panic" among the staff.

Scott, who along with other congressional leaders met with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger to discuss the foreign assistance program, said that while many approved of the Nixon pardon there was a general opposition against blanket pardons and for "a full and complete disclosure of the Watergate story."

Scott said he believed requests for pardons from Watergate defendants should be considered on a "case by case" basis.

Scott said that he had talked to Nixon two weeks ago and found him "cheerful." Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said he also talked to Nixon on the telephone a few days ago about "his situation in general."

"I think the man is suffering a lot and going through a lot of pain and anguish," said Thurmond. "But he was emotionally stable.

"He mentioned the fact that there seemed to be no end" to his problems, Thurmond added.

David Eisenhower, in an interview on the NBC-TV Today Show, said one of Nixon's legs is swollen twice its normal size from phlebitis, an inflammation of the vein, and "his health is not good." "I think he has his ups and downs," said Eisenhower, Nixon's son-in-law. "Some people describe him as being sharper than ever in certain meetings and then at times ... yes he's depressed.

"Right at this very moment he's not feeling well. He has his leg elevated because (of the) phlebitis in his leg ... the clot has moved above the knee and his one leg is swollen about twice its normal size. His health is not good."

Eisenhower also said that Nixon would have rejected the pardon offered by Ford if it had been "tied directly" to the issue of amnesty for Vietnam draft evaders and deserters.

A high level White House aide said today that Ford agonized over the decision to pardon Nixon and spent sleepless nights.

Water Storage Tax Is Studied

REDWOOD CITY (UPI) — In a dispute over water rates, San Mateo County's Board of Supervisors has voted to study taxing water stored on the Peninsula by the City and County of San Francisco.

The board voted the study of an "inventory tax" this week in the dispute ove' whether San Francisco can charge out-of-city customers more for its water than it does its own residents.

San Francisco, which owns a reservoir in San Mateo County, had decided to increase the rates by 20.5 per cent to its customers in San Mateo, Alameda and Santa Clara counties.

Variance Requests

The Ross Town Council will consider four variance requests and two other items concerning house-building when it meets tonight at 8 o'clock at the town hall.

Pardons Said Ruled Out By Public Flap

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A lawyer for Jeb Stuart Magruder said today the news media created such a flap over the prospect of presidential pardons for Watergate defendants that the White House now "can't touch it with a 10-foot pole."

The attorney, James J. Bierbower, said President Ford now could not consider pardoning any Watergate figures for a "long time" because the furor stirred up by news reports that such pardons were under study at the White House.

HENRY A. FLERTZHEIM
Corps district engineer

Corps Post Is Filled By Novatan

Col. Henry A. Flertzheim of Novato has taken over the position of San Francisco district engineer for the Army Corps of Engineers.

Flertzheim, 46, succeeds Col. James L. Lammie, who has taken a management position with the San Rafael soil engineering firm of Harding-Lawson Associates.

The job entails responsibility for all corps public works programs in Northwestern California. Among major projects he will be dealing with are the controversial Warm Springs Dam-Lake Sonoma and the Baldwin-Stockton deep water channel from the Golden Gate to Stockton.

Also under his jurisdiction in Marin County are smaller projects on the Corte Madera and Novato creeks.

Flertzheim is a 1953 graduate of the United States Military Academy, and holds graduate degrees from California Institute of Technology and George Washington University.

He has been awarded the Legion of Merit, Bronze Star, Air Medal and the Joint Services and Army Commendation medals.

Sugar Can Be Very Upsetting

STANFORD (UPI) — Table sugar can cause some persons to suffer from a bloated feeling or diarrhea, a Stanford University professor said today.

Dr. Gary M. Gray, chief of the division of gastroenterology at the university's school of medicine, said these people cannot digest the sugar, just as others cannot digest the lactose in milk.

Stanford scientists, he said, have isolated and characterized some of the enzymes active in the victims' intestines. One is sucrase, which breaks down sugar.

"If the enzyme is not present, sugar from the diet remains in the intestine and by osmotic action draws water out of the tissues into the intestine, creating a bloated feeling and resulting in a watery diarrhea," Gray said.

STAGE YOUR HOME MOVIE

One of the things we tend to forget is that all of us have a little "ham" in us. Almost everyone is a frustrated actor, and that includes everyone from your youngest child to grandpa.

That fact can enliven your home movies if you just take advantage of it. Instead of shooting film haphazardly, hoping something interesting will happen, stage the action just like any Hollywood movie director . . . and let your family and friends be the actors.

When people don't have anything to do, they act unnatural on camera. But give them a role to play and they often "turn on." Even kids enjoy playacting, and adults forget themselves when you give them something to do they can concentrate on.

What's more, staging the action lets you get set up perfectly, with interesting shooting angles, the right light, speed setting, and so on.

Seeing your home movies is part of the fun of taking them . . . and that means a good projector. We'll be glad to advise you on the features you'll need for your showings — and we carry projectors in a wide price range to fit your budget.

Looking For A New Car? Well Be Prepared For $400 Increase

DETROIT (UPI) — The new cars just arriving at dealer showrooms are priced more than $400 higher than last year's models, completing a cycle that has seen the cost of a car climb almost $1,000 in the last 13 months.

Chrysler Corp. and American Motors yesterday completed what is expected to be just the first round of pricing on the 1975s.

Chrysler's average boost of $415, or 8.5 per cent, was in line with General Motors and Ford, while American Motors had a tentative boost averaging $300, or 7.7 per cent.

GM's boost averaged $446, including $20 in higher destination charges, while Ford said its tentative '75 model prices were $418 — 8 per cent — above 1974.

These introductory prices are on top of average $500 increases on U.S.-built cars during the 1974-model year.

AMC chairman Roy D. Chapin Jr. said his company's smaller price hikes were due to its lack of big cars, which pull the average increases upward and its relatively small use of the catalytic converter to control emissions.

While the "Big Three" will use the new antipollution device on most cars, AMC expects to install it on less than one-third of its models.

Chrysler's increases ranged from $192 on the Chrysler Newport 4-door hardtop to $1,040 on the Imperial 4-door hardtop.

Chrysler said the average price boost consisted of a $350 general increase, $50 for higher option prices and $15 for higher destination costs.

The least-expensive Chrysler model at $3,243, is now the Plymouth Duster 2-door coupe with a six-cylinder engine, a 14.6 per cent boost over the $2,829 charged for the 1974 model.

Chrysler said its introduction date remains Oct. 1, but it gave dealers permission to begin selling the '75s now because of similar action by Ford and GM.

MIXUP IN NOVATO

This tangled wreckage is but the tip of the iceberg. Hidden by overturned truck are two other vehicles involved. The truck, the fork lift it was towing (left) and a California Department of Transportation mower tumbled into a ditch along Highway 101 near Lamont Avenue in Novato at 12:45 p.m. yesterday in an unusual accident. Police said the truck driven by Harvey G. Litwin, 35, of Synanon at Marshall, and the fork lift, collided with the mower along the edge of the highway being operated by Frank J. Warren, 35, of 7940 Adrian Drive, Rohnert Park, after colliding with a passenger car driven by Douglas K. McNeil, 21, of 18 Harding Drive, Novato. Warren was toppled from the mower and shaken up but uninjured.

Bay Crusade Starts Marin Drive

Local politicians, business leaders and prominent citizens arrived somewhat lethargically but left fired with enthusiasm this morning after the Marin County kickoff breakfast for the 1974 United Bay Area Crusade.

United Way of America executive committee chairman Laurence D. Bolling received a standing ovation from the 100 persons present when he said, "Too many young people in our country are just giving up — they see no hope for the future. We need character building agencies like these in UBAC now more than any other time in our country's history."

The crusade, which runs through Nov. 21, seeks donations from employers, workers and the community-at-large to achieve a goal of $21 million in contributions from the Bay Area. More than 180 service agencies in the area annually sy Chapman began the 45-minute program at the Holiday Inn in San Rafael with soft, lilting music — "songs about people," she said.

Bolling drew laughs when he said, "Anybody that can get up in the morning and sing like you do is amazing — you're great."

But then the Oakland civic leader grew serious, and, in fact, vehement in exhorting the community leaders to achieve the Marin Crusade goal of $225,000.

"Whether you want to believe it or not, this country is in crisis," he said. He cited spiraling crime rates, increased self-protective vigilante groups, and high suicide rates among the nation's youth as evidence of the dangerous situation in our society.

"We need to promote a new resolve and a new will. We're still spending five times more for correction (or criminals) in this country than for prevention," he noted.

"Take the enthusiasm generated by this meeting and spread it into the community. The duty of this nation is to build and bind, not to take apart."

Just A Little Magic Needed

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Anything that either smells or tastes good can be reproduced for the consumer by technological wizardry, according to representatives at the International Congress of Essential Oils.

The convention, which ended yesterday, drew more than 1,000 representatives of firms that isolate — or make synthetic versions of — flavors and fragrances.

Stephen Manheimer, president of Essential Oil Association of USA, said virtually "any flavor" was possible by natural or synthetic production.

Burns Fatal To Cameraman

STOCKTON (UPI) — A cameraman who was burned in a helicopter crash died yesterday, three days after the accident near the Stanislaus River.

The victim was Jeb Golsen, 40, of Pacific Palisades.

Gholsen had been trying to film a television commercial to be used in a political campaign against Proposition 17 on the November ballot.

The proposition deals with the proposed new Melones Dam.

River Water Pact Is Approved

An agreement to bring 4,300 acre-feet of Russian River water annually to Marin Municipal Water District won final approval from the district board yesterday.

The contract will provide an intertie with North Marin County Water District to allow the 4,300 acre-feet of Sonoma County water to flow into central Marin where Marin Municipal directors have declared a shortage exists, necessitating a moratorium on new water connections.

But Marin Municipal's approval of the agreement is only a first step. North Marin County Water District has yet to approve it and the Sonoma County Water Agency has not agreed to supply the water.

"We're still working with the Sonoma County Water Agency on it," Marin Municipal Gen. Mgr. J. Dietrich Stroeh told the directors. In July the Sonoma agency told the district that it would not reopen negotiations with Marin Municipal until questions on the construction of Warm Springs Dam and the planned aquaduct project from Russian River to Cotati were resolved.

So Marin Municipal yesterday also approved a "minitie" alternative agreement with North Marin County Water District in case the proposed intertie agreement for 4,300 acre-feet of Russian River water doesn't come through. They are that North Marin water district use its excess winter water to:

1. Replace water supplied by Marin Municipal to the South Hamilton Air Force Base area and to North Marin during periods of peak summer demand, the latter not to exceed 450 acre-feet per year.

2. Replace any water which Marin Municipal would release from Nicasio reservoir to Point Reyes Station to prevent a critical drawdown of North Marin's Point Reyes Station wells during prolonged dry spells or emergencies.

3. Deliver to Marin Municipal excess entitlement water available to North Marin from the Sonoma agency as Marin Municipal shall request from time to time, Marin Municipal to pay cost plus $13.50 per acre foot.

The minitie, consisting of 14 feet of pipeline, connecting valves, a pump and meter, would connect lines of the two water districts at the east side of Highway 101 near Bolling Drive, south of Hamilton. Cost would be borne by North Marin County Water District.

Stroeh explained that the minitie plan was suggested by North Marin district because an existing agreement requires North Marin to return water to Marin Municipal in event of a water shortage. Marin Municipal, which supplies South Hamilton area water, requested return when it declared its water moratorium last year.

He added that the North Marin replacement water would be used directly in the Lucas Valley, Marinwood and Terra Linda areas in the early months of the year, alleviating drain on Marin Municipal's lakes. It could not be stored in the lakes because extensive pipelines would be required, but it could be piped into downtown San Rafael in an emergency, Stroeh said. The North Marin water would be potable without further treatment and of good quality, he said.

If the large intertie project is operative before Dec. 1., 1975, the mini-tie plan would be scrapped, Stroeh said. Otherwise it would be effective on that date.

Board chairman Jack R. Felson opposed both agreements, saying, "Voters have twice voted against further development of the Russian River project," and challenged the board to put the intertie agreement on the ballot.

Felson questioned whether the agreement would allow Point Reyes area new connections through North Marin district while Marin Municipal was turning down such requests. Director Polly O. Smith countered that there were sufficient growth control safeguards to that area.

The Marin Municipal Water District board also:

TRAIL — Voted to work with the county to implement the Cross Marin Trail and to provide financial assistance in obtaining easement rights. The bicycle trail would cross Marin Municipal Water District lands.

ENVIRONMENT — Approved a letter to be sent to all planning commission chairmen in the district urging planners to contact the district whenever they are about to consider the environmental impact of any project and to include adequate description of the water supply situation in environmental impact reports.

CONTRACT — Awarded a painting contract for two steel storage tanks to Orrell-Keefe Inc. of Oakland for $11,981.

GARDEN — Tabled a proposed agreement with the county to pay up to $14,000 for development of a water conserving garden at Civic Center until staff could outline specific educational program uses.

WATER LINE — Ratified agreement with Doric Construction Co. that it would relocate a water line to serve Sea Port Hills development if necessary.

SCHOOL BUS — Approved agreement with Marin County Schools Office for parking and maintenance of 50 buses, costs to be paid by the schools office.

HAZARD — Heard a report by the general manager on modification plans to handle hazardous materials. Approved placement of a full report on the Oct. 9 agenda.

FIRE LINE — Approved payment of $817 to extend a fireline on Santa Rosa Avenue, Sausalito, the city and property owner to bear additional $5,883 costs.

NEXT MEETING — Adjourned to 1 p.m. Sept. 25 at the district office.

JACK FORD

Pardon Was Right, Says Jack Ford

BEVERLY HILLS (UPI) — President Ford's son Jack, 22, said last night he supports his father's decision to pardon Richard Nixon, but does not favor blanket amnesty for either Watergate defendants or draft dodgers.

"I think blanket amnesty for people who didn't join the Army or people involved in Watergate would be wrong," young Ford told a youth rally. "Both should be handled on an individual basis."

The President's son said he supported his father's decision to give Nixon immunity from possible prosecution — from a "human standpoint."

Jack Ford, a guest speaker at a rally for Brian Van Camp, the Republican candidate for California secretary of state, said he feels some form of amnesty for objectors to the Viet Nam war is appropriate.

"I'm very much for it," he said. "But anyone who thinks they can completely sit out the whole situation and not pay any price and think they can get unconditional amnesty is kidding themselves."

Jack Ford agin refused to comment on his personal experience with marijuana, but said he favored decriminalization of the drug.

Match Playing Is Said Death Cause

OAKLAND (UPI) — A youngster who the Alameda County coroner's office said had been playing with matches was burned to death yesterday in the back seat of her mother's parked automobile.

The victim was identified as Shunice Owens, 4, the daughter of Mrs. Machelle Walker.

Art Display

Watercolor paintings by San Anselmo artist Victor de Beck are being exhibited in the main lobby of the Kaiser Foundation Hospital, 99 Monticello Road, San Rafael, through Sept. 30.

No Ears, No Job Says Board

MUNISING, Mich. (UPI) — The Alger County dogcatcher, who refused to cut off the ears of the dogs he shot, got the ax Tuesday.

Earl Rowley was fired Tuesday night a few minutes after the seven-member county board of commissioners rejected his final expense account — $15 for treatment of an ear infection he said was caused by the noise of gunblasts as he destroyed stray dogs.

Rowley was paid $3 for each dog he shot. When he submitted a bill last month, one dubious commissioner suggested Rowley cut off an ear from each dog he destroyed as proof he actually killed it.

But the dogcatcher refused. "There's no place to put the ears if I cut them off," he said, "and it's a silly idea. I wouldn't do it."

Ford Asks More For Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford told congressional leaders today that proposed authorizations for foreign military and economic aid will not meet the United States' commitments abroad.

Democratic and republican leaders reported after a meeting with Ford and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that Congress likely will pass a continuing resolution to maintain the foreign aid program at present spending levels until February, when the new Congress would try to reach a compromise.

Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott said Ford discussed "the problems raised by inadequacies in proposed authorization for economic and military aid." He said specifically that $400 million more is needed for military assistance "or we cannot maintain our commitments."

Ford was specifically upset by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's decision to slash $700 million from the administration's $3.2 billion request for military aid to the Middle East and Indochina, excluding Vietnam.

Scott warned that Ford probably would inform Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin, who is in Washington seeking more military and economic assistance, of the problems he faces. Rabin met with Ford later in the day.

Furthermore, Scott said, there is the "sticky question" of what he described as "crippling amendments" to deny aid to Turkey as a result of the revolt in Cyprus.

Scott said Ford "asked for an understanding of his position and urged Congress to restore the deficits" resulting from cuts in the administration's program. But he added the President also left it up to Congress to decide what should be done in this session on foreign aid.

Ford reportedly received a standing ovation when he entered the Cabinet Room and Sen. Frank B. Moss, D-Utah, said he did not get the feeling that "the honeymoon is over" because of Ford's controversial decision to pardon former President Nixon.

Ford today intended to send to Congress a letter listing the legislative action he wants before the anticipated mid-October adjournment. The top priority on that list will be the confirmation of former New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller as vice president.

Of the $2.5 billion recommended by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee for foreign economic and military aid, $2.2 billion was for economic assistance to Indochina, security supporting assistance, a new Middle East contingency fund and the foreign military assistance and sales program; $25.4 million for other economic assistance programs, and $27.7 million for the U.S. contribution to the Control and Supervision Commission in Vietnam.

The committee cut nearly $389.8 million from the request for aid to Indochina; more than $435 million for military assistance, and $100 million for military credit sales and it added $200 million for seccurity supporting assistance. The proposal includes economic, but not military aid, for Vietnam.

Bridges Favors Regional Port For Bay Area

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Longshore leader Harry Bridges is advocating a regional port agency for the San Francisco Bay Area.

The International Longshoremen's and Warehousemen's Union president suggested yesterday that each port specialize in certain types of cargo.

He told a news conference such a system would avoid the construction of competing facilities.

Bridges, also a member of the Port of San Francisco Commission, declared that the Port of Oakland had gained a competitive edge over San Francisco because of its construction policies.

County Denies Any Pressure On Quinn

The county health department has not threatened to close down Jimmy Quinn's bar in Mill Valley, the district sanitarian for the Southern Marin city said today.

Pablo Magat denied a report by James Canepa, owner of the Mill Valley Market who last week told the Independent-Journal that the veteran saloonkeeper would have to make certain repairs by next July or face closure by the department.

Canepa owns the building in which Quinn's is located and would like to expand his adjacent market into what is now the bar. Canepa has given Quinn until next April to get out of the establishment he has owned for about 45 years.

"The last time I was at Quinn's, about three months ago, his place was in compliance with minimum sanitation requirements," Magat told the I-J. "He does need to improve his storage area, sink and liquor cases, but I didn't threaten to close him down if he didn't do that."

Since the bar is so old, it does not have to meet current health department regulations, according to Magat. "But if someone else took it over, if it changed owners, then it would have to be improved."

Canepa reported that health department officials had said the bar needs about $20,000 worth of repairs, but Magat denied that.

Quinn, who is now 88 years old, doesn't want to give up his tavern. "Just three to five years more. That's all I want," he says.

PROTESTERS PUSHED BACK

Gas-masked South Korean riot police pushed back anti-Japanese demonstrators through clouds of tear gas during a protest gathering yesterday outside the Japanese embassy in Seoul. The demonstration protested Japan's refusal to accept responsibility for the attempted assassination of South Korean President Park Chung-hee and a statement by Japanese Foreign Minister Toshio Kinura in which he said Japan does not consider South Korea the sole, legitimate government on the Korean peninsula. Plane Crashed Without Warning

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI) — Judy Colette Watson, the Eastern Airlines stewardess who walked away from yesterday's Eastern Airlines crash virtually unscathed, said there was no warning of the pending disaster and no outcry aboard the plane.

The honey blonde, one of 13 to survive, appeared at a news conference today and declared, "it's just nice to see people and faces and trees."

Sixty-nine persons lost their lives in the crash. The flight was Eastern 212, en route from Charleston, S. C. to Chicago, via Charlotte.

"I wish I knew why I was so lucky," Mrs. Watson, a six-year veteran with Eastern Airlines, told a news conference. "I'm just so happy."

She stood by her husband, Mike, as she talked. They live in College Park, Ga.

She said there was no prior warning the sleek DC-9 was going to crash until it actually thudded to the ground in a cornfield and burst into flames about three miles short of Charlotte's Douglas Airport.

"My first impression was that the landing gear had failed," she said. "I saw flames and I knew we had crashed.

"My first thought was to do everything I could to get the people out. But the flames were right in front of me."

Mrs. Watson said she and a male passenger whose name she did not know broke out of a cockpit window and helped the injured co-pilot, James Daniels Jr., outside the burning plane.

Mrs. Watson said outside the plane and amidst the cries of the dying she felt the frustration and helplessness.

"I think my first real feeling was that 71 people were dying and there was nothing I could do," she said.

Mike Watson, a supervisor with Atlanta Dairies, said he heard of the crash at work and knew his wife was aboard. Fortunately, his uncertainty was short-lived when his wife phoned him 10 minutes later.

Mrs. Watson said she planned to be flying again "just as soon as I'm not too sore — maybe by the end of this month."

The suddenness of the crash and the tragedy of it all still awed the young stewardess.

"There was never a cry on the airplane," she said.

Reception For Author Is Set For Sept. 21

A champagne reception for Margaret Sanborn of Mill Valley, author of "The American River of El Dorado," will be held Sept. 21 at the Marin County Civic Center Library.

The Independent-Journal erred yesterday in saying the reception would be held this Saturday.

The reception, sponsored by the library, will run from 2 to 5 p.m. in the California room.

On Sept. 19, Mrs. Sanborn will discuss the river and its role in history at 8 p.m. in the planning commission chambers at Civic Center. Her talk will follow a showing of the film "California's Dawn."

Session On Bond Issue Scheduled

The Petaluma Recreation, Music and Parks Commission last night set a meeting for 7:30 p.m. next Wednesday to familiarize residents with the projects which would be financed by passage Nov. 5 of the $2.2 million parks development bond issue.

A spokesman said the informational session is tentatively scheduled for city hall.

School Spending Priorities Set

If voters in the Nov. 5 election authorize an increase in the tax rate for Petaluma schools, the first thing the money should be spend for is higher pay for elementary district teachers and for improving high school district courses, according to two committees appointed to recommended spending priorities.

The elementary district committee told the Petaluma Board of Education Tuesday that adequate salaries for teaching personnel are the most badly needed item, followed by smaller classes, more support personnel, more instructional materials, better maintenance of facilities, a program for gifted students, better music and health programs, greater use of achievement and diagnostic testing, more teacher training, greater use of audio-visual gear, stepped-up science programs, better administration and expanded summer programs.

The high school district committee said the greatest emphasis should be placed on improving courses which teach such basic skills as reading, grammar, math and elementary science. Other recommendations were for improvement of counseling services, increased financial support of reading programs, purchase of more textbooks and creation of programs to keep potential dropouts in school and help solve disciplinary problems.

The committees, composed of students, teachers and citizens, were formed earlier this summer and charged with studying operations and programs in each of the two city school districts, finding out where the application of more money would do the most good.

If voters approve the ballot measures on Nov. 5, spending will be increased by $45 per pupil in the elementary district and $200 per pupil in the high school district. District officials say the additional funds will place Petaluma on a par with average expenditures per pupil around the state.

San Rafael Council Makes General Plan Changes

The San Rafael City Council last night continued its review of the city's new general plan and made a number of minor changes in the document's open space chapter, a councilman reported today.

Councilman Lawrence E. Mulryan, however, said the open space element weathered the hearing without any "substantive change."

Mulryan said about 25 citizens attended the hearing, the second in a series of public sessions set by the council to review the proposal.

Norman Higby, spokesman for the Home and Business Preservation League, was the most vocal critic of the open space chapter last night, saying the proposal is inflationary and claiming that open space acquisition drives up the cost of housing, Mulryan reported.

Mulryan said the council added formation of assessment districts and creation of an open space ordinance to a list of possible methods of acquiring open space in San Rafael.

He noted the city council will continue its review of the document at 8 p.m. tomorrow in city hall.

VICTOR LESTER
Efforts misfire

Potentially Explosive Tax Case

STOCKTON (AP) — Victor Lester brought along eight sticks of dynamite when he sought a solution to his federal tax problems, but his efforts misfired and landed him in jail.

The balding 57-year-old resident of Rawhide Flats, Tuolumne County, also used a pistol to hold Internal Revenue Service agent Eugene Neri hostage in the Stockton IRS office yesterday.

For 3½ tense hours, the goateed owner of several plastics firms sat on the floor of the conference room, carefully taking medicine for a heart condition as he talked with IRS and FBI agents.

FBI agent Robert Anderson came down from his office one floor above the IRS office to negotiate with Lester.

After talking by telephone to IRS District Supervisor Frank Browitt in San Francisco, Lester finally surrendered to the FBI and the heavily armed police who had cordoned off the area around the two-story federal building in downtown Stockton.

"We will review his tax problems," James Stanley, a supervisor in the Stockton IRS office, told reporters.

Lester, whose businesses are in the Sonora area, has a number of tax problems with government, officials said.

One piece of his rural property in Northern California was sold for back taxes by the government and several other claims are still outstanding for personal as well as corporate taxes, records show.

FBI agent Cliff Harriman in Sacramento said the dynamite could not have been exploded by Lester.

"There was no detonator," he said, "just eight sticks of dynamite and a six-volt battery."

Major California Quake Predicted

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A rare lineup of nine planets will produce a chain of events that will trigger a major earthquake along California's San Andreas fault in 1982, two astronomers predicted in a book published today.

John R. Gribbin, 28, and Stephen H. Plagemann, 32, said the quake is likely to occur in the Los Angeles area and it could be "one of the greatest disasters of modern times."

The San Andreas fault system runs almost the entire length of California, thrusting ashore from the Gulf of California in the South and running almost to Oregon before it vanishes beneath the Pacific Ocean.

Opposing pressures of the continental land masses are building up along the fault, the authors said, and all it needs to lurch into life is a small nudge.

Gribbin and Plagemann argue in "The Jupiter Effect" (Walker and Co., $7.95) that that push is likely to occur in 1982, when the planets line up on the same side of the sun for the first time in 179 years.

At the same time, the sun should reach its peak sunspot activity.

The combination of the unusual gravitation effects of the planetary lineup on the sun with the normal sunspot peak is expected to unleash great outbursts of solar radiation.

The authors believe these solar storms will disrupt the earth's weather and air circulation to such an extent that the forces of atmospheric friction will disturb earth's rotation.

That change in the planet's spin rate will be slight, but they contend it will be enough to build up tidal forces in earth's crust to "agitate regions of geologic instability in life."

"There will be many earthquakes, large and small, around susceptible regions of the globe," Gribbin and Plagemann said.

"And one region where one of the greatest fault systems lies today under a great strain, long overdue for a giant leap forward and just awaiting the necessary kick, is California."

Asked to comment on the theory, a solar astronomer at the government's Environmental Research Laboratories at Boulder, Colo., said there is a scientific basis for relating great solar storms with atmospheric changes and very slight changes in earth's rotation.

But he said past attempts to predict sunspot activity on the basis of planetary lineups do not add credibility to the new prediction.

Dr. Robert H. Hamilton, chief of the U.S. Geological Survey's Office of Earthquake Research, said anything that could affect earth's rotation could affect earthquakes.

But he said significant rotational changes were needed "and ultimately the validity of their argument hinges on that."

Gribbin is geophysics editor of the British scientific journal "Nature" and Plagemann is engaged in atmospheric research.

Calley's Judge Enters The Bar

MARIETTA, Ga. (UPI) — Retired Army Col. Reid W. Kennedy, who presided at the court martial of former Army Lt. William Calley, was sworn in yesterday as a member of the State Bar of Georgia.

The 53-year-old Kennedy, who left the Army after nearly 30 years of service at the end of June, said he would enter legal partnership with Edwin Marger in Atlanta.

Kennedy called the Calley case "certainly the most interesting both factual and legally" that he had ever taken part in.

Graham Asks For Low Profile

NEW YORK (UPI) — Washington Post publisher Katharine Graham says she thinks journalists should lower their profile.

"The press as a chronicler of events, not a participant, is essential to the functioning of a democratic society," Mrs. Graham said yesterday at a Ms. Magazine breakfast in her honor.

"I hope and pray all of us will be able to lower our profiles and mirror society and all its complexities for our readers and viewers," she added.

BRIDGE IS A REAL COMMUNITY EFFORT

Aided by an earth auger crew from the Presidio of San Francisco, members of Company D, 132nd Engineering Battalion of the California Army National Guard unit in San Rafael, bore huge holes before pouring concrete supports for a new footbridge across Miller Creek, to link old and new tennis courts of the Marinwood Community Service District. The project, years in preparation, is being done for about $4,000 in district funds, with the aid of reservist Army men on their monthly drills. Dixie School District traded land for the span with the community district, and the county's labor organizations have given their blessings to the project which began yesterday. It is planned for completion by mid-October.

Sharp Drop Reported In Dixie Enrollment

Enrollment has dropped even more sharply than expected in the Dixie School District, Supt. Clifford Campbell told district trustees last night.

He said the first week of school found only 3,725 youngsters attending the district's nine schools, a drop of 275 from June figures.

Campbell said the board took no action on the news, since the district eliminated overstaffing problems when it laid off six teachers last spring in anticipation of some drop. The staff had expected about a 5 per cent decrease in enrollment. The actual loss is about 6.5 per cent, Campbell said.

During the 1969-70 school year, the district had almost 5,000 students. The decline this month seems largely due to large families moving out of the district, and being replaced by new residents with fewer children, he said.

The Dixie School District School Board Also:

LEAVE — Overruled Campbell's recommended denial and granted a year's leave of absence to Carol Drescher, teacher at Dixie School, while her husband is on temporary business assignment in Australia. Campbell told the board the district may have to lay off more teachers next spring, due to enrollment shrinkage.

RELATIVES — To comply with new federal fair employment laws, dropped a district policy against hiring new employees who are closely related to persons already working for the district.

PLAYGROUND — Approved raising approximately 30 playground supervisors' pay from $2.50 to $3 per hour.

INSURANCE — Learned that district costs for the employees' income protection plan may be two to three times the amount expected. The staff was asked to recommend alternatives.

COLLEGE FOR KIDS — Approved spending $440 to send 40 gifted Dixie students to the College of Marin's College for Kids program.

A Claim Of Vast Untapped Resources

UNIVERSITY PARK, Pa. (UPI) — Dr. John D. Ridge, head of the mineral economics department at Penn State University, says there are vast untapped mineral and fuel resources beneath the continental United States.

Ridge proposes that regularly spaced exploratory holes be drilled across the nation to find the oil, coal, gas and other fuels.

Ford Aide Will Help First Lady

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Betty Ford has assigned Lt. Col. Americo Sardo, the President's Marine aide, as her staff director. He says the position is temporary.

Sardo, 44, of Oiddletown, Conn., was asked by the First Lady to coordinate her staff during the transition.

His presence has irritated some White House assistants who have orders to clear all their contacts with Mrs. Ford through Sardo and Nancy Howe, her personal secretary.

Mrs. Ford has told reporters she does not intend to have a "chief of staff" and there will be no buffer between her and staff members.

Joan Kennedy Back In Private Clinic

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Mrs. Joan Kennedy, the wife of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., has returned to a private clinic for more rest, this time on the West Coast.

Mrs. Kennedy, who spent more than a month in a Connecticut sanitarium during two different periods this spring, is currently spending "several days" in a small private clinic in California, Dick Drayne, Kennedy's press secretary said yesterday.

Chenault Is Found Guilty Of Mrs. King's Murder

ATLANTA (UPI) — A racially mixed jury found Marcus Wayne Chenault guilty today of murdering Mrs. Martin Luther King Sr. and a church deacon in a wild shooting spree at Ebenezer Baptist Church June 30.

The jury deliberated 70 minutes before returning its verdict of guilty on all five counts in Fulton County Superior Court. Chenault had been charged with two counts of murder, one of aggravated assault and two of carrying concealed weapons.

The 23-year-old black man, a former Ohio State University student, kept up his antics which have marked his four-day trial as the jury was polled on the verdict by Judge Luther Alverson. Chenault raised a clenched fist and blew kisses.

Thaddeus Turner, the black jury foreman, said, "We the jury find the defendant guilty as charged."

Defense attorneys have admitted that Chenault fired the shots which killed Mrs. King, church deacon Edward Boykin and wounded a second woman, but they argued the prosecution has said it will ask that Chenault be sentenced to death.

As one of his attorneys began a plea for mercy before the jury retired again to fix the sentence, Chenault clutched the arms of his chair, stuck out his tongue, convulsed as though in an electric chair, then slumped over. A few seconds later, he sat up, smiled and made a V-for-victory sign.

Nixon Bar File To Be Maintained

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — A massive file accumulated in a California State Bar disciplinary investigation of Richard M. Nixon will be maintained even if the former president is allowed to resign from the bar.

Nixon's personal attorney Dean S. Butler announced Monday at a State Bar meeting that the former president intended to quit the California and New York bar associations because he no longer intended to practice law.

Before he is allowed to resign, the bar's powerful Board of Governors and finally the State Supreme Court will have to accept the letter of resignation.

It was learned yesterday that the year-long investigation of Nixon and five other Watergate-implicated attorneys had cost $150,000. More than 2,000 man-hours had been devoted to the probe.

John Malone, executive secretary of the bar, said if the former president resigns and then reapplies the file could be reopened.

Many of the documents in the file came from earlier investigations done by the Senate Watergate Committee and the Office of the Special Prosecutor in Washington.

Although Malone would not specifically comment on the confidential material, he described the information collected "as a file like no other file."

Yesterday, 100 attorneys attending the annual State Bar meeting submitted a petition to the bar's ruling body asking it to hold open the investigation into Nixon's "fitness" to practice law.

But bar officials said the investigation, which could lead to disbarment, would continue until a decision was reached by the state high court, which is the final authority in the matter.

No date was set for the bar or the court to act on the resignation.

Butler hinted that the resignation was ill-timed because it came at a time when the bar was meeting. He said he urged that Nixon submit it sooner.

"It could have been submitted last week," he said, "but there were other priorities."

Senate Votes To Establish Permanent 55 MPH Limit

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you haven't done it yet, you'd better start getting used to driving only 55 miles per hour.

Spurred by statistics showing a decline of nearly 6,000 traffic fatalities since the temporary 55 mph maximum speed limit was imposed to save gasoline, the Senate voted, 85-0, yesterday to make the limit permanent.

The temporary nationwide speed limit, imposed Jan. 2, had been scheduled to expire next June 30. The limit is enforced on states by threat of withdrawal of federal highway aid.

The Senate Public Works Committee, which wrote the measure, said the 55 m.p.h. limits "have produced the single most effective improvement in highway safety in recent years." It also cited a Gallup Poll showing 72 per cent of persons interviewed favor the lower limit.

An amendment by Sen. Robert Dole, R-Kan., which would have given states the option to impose 60 m.p.h. limits, was defeated, 63-22.

In another action, without the force of law, the Senate voted 64-21 against the interlock system in cars, which requires that seatbelts be fastened before the car will start.

The package of changes in the Federal Aid to Highways Act also would allow heavier trucks on interstate highways increasing the maximum gross weight from 73,280 pounds to 80,000 pounds. A move to strike that increase was defeated on a 59-24 vote.

The American Automobile Association immediately denounced that portion of the bill as a blatant disregard of hazardous safety conditions the trucks cause.

The vote on the interlock systems came on an amendment by Sen. James Buckley, R-N.Y., to prohibit the government from requiring the interlock system, buzzers that indicate the belts aren't fastened or any "passive restraint" system other than the belts. That would eliminate airbags.

Buckley withdrew his amendment after passage when it was noted that a similar bill was being considered in a House denate conference.

Buckley said the vote would serve as instruction to the Senate conferees to approve a ban on such requirements, but Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, said that as one of the conferees, he would not accept the vote as an instruction.

Option On Land For Wildlife

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An ecology group has obtained an option to purchase 38,000 acres of land on San Francisco Bay to be used for wildlife refuge and recreation.

The trust for Public Land, a nonprofit organization for the acquisition of urban public land, said yesterday it had obtained the option to buy the land for $18.5 million from the Leslie Salt Co., which would continue to remove salt from the property.

Purchase would add an additional 16,000 acres to the San Francisco Bay National Wildlife Refuge in the South Bay, and 9,000 acres to the proposed San Pablo Bay Refuge area near Napa County, TPL President Huey Johnson said.

Tighter Tax Return Rules Asked

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In a move to help prevent misuse of the Internal Revenue Service, the administration has proposed a tightening of the rules on who can see individual tax returns and when tax information can be disclosed.

The new legislation would eliminate the President's power to decide by executive order which federal agencies can see tax returns, and instead would spell out which agencies can get income tax returns and under what circumstances.

Generally, federal agencies could still obtain individual returns for statistical and law enforcement purposes, states could use federal returns in enforcement of their tax laws, and certain committees of Congress could still obtain returns.

Treasury Secretary William Simon, who proposed the legislation in letters to the House and Senate, said it would ensure "the maximum confidentiality of tax returns ad tax return information consistent with effective tax administration ...."

In an explanation of the legislation, the Treasury Department said there was concern that the volume of tax data flowing throughout the government had made it difficult to maintain confidentiality. There also is concern, the department said, that state and local officials are tempted to use federal tax information for political purposes.

Therefore, the legislation proposes that use of tax returns by federal agencies be limited to statistical and law enforcement uses, with tighter rules on access to individual returns.

U.S. attorneys and the Justice Department would no longer have access to tax returns except for use in litigation or investigations. However, persons not directly involved in such investigations or court cases would have to give their consent to allow government lawyers to see their returns.

City and local governments would no longer be allowed access to tax returns. Only state bodies lawfully engaged in tax law enforcement could obtain returns.

The President or his designated White House employees still could obtain returns although the President can no longer say which federal agencies could obtain tax information.

The tax-writing committees of Congress would retain their access to tax returns, and Congress could still pass resolutions allowing access to other committees.

Joint Space Shot Expanded

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Soviets have stretched their commitment for next July's joint American-Russian space flight to include a full dress rehearsal in orbit, the chief of cosmonaut training said yesterday.

At the beginning of negotiations for the international flight about two years ago, the Soviets said they would prepare two separate launch rockets and Soyuz ships and have two No. 1 crews and two backup crews to prevent serious delays.

Vladimir A. Shatalov, heading a Soviet delegation at the Johnson Space Center, told a news conference yesterday the Russians now plan an in-flight checkout of all the new hardware needed for the mission a few months before the July 15 launch.

Shatalov said one of the backup cosmonauts would make the test flight, but declined to identify which one of the six it would be.

"This will be nothing more than a full dress rehearsal of the joint flight," Shatalov said.

"The crews that will be picked are intended to check in minute detail every aspect of the joint flight. It is also to train the rest of the personnel, ground personnel, for the joint flight."

The United States, which has not had the problems of the Soviets, seemed plagued with in their missions, has one Apollo ship and Saturn rocket prepared for the flight and only one prime and backup crew as they have had in all past programs.

Shatalov said that although the Americans will not test-fly the docking mechanism and equipment, he is not worried.

"Judging by the training I witnesssed at Star City (the Soviet space center) and here yesterday, I have no doubts that the American crews are well-prepared for this mission," he said.

Shatalov said the joint flight should bring the two nations closer together and further the cooperation they have attained.

"We are confident that such joint cooperation will continue to develop," he said.

"I am deeply confident that space has opened up only briefly for us. We're just beginning. In the next stages of history, I'm confident we will go through it together page by page."

Thomas P. Stafford, commander of the American crew for the flight, said the recent Soyuz 15 failure to dock in orbit with the Soviet Salyut space station would not affect the international mission.

He said a totally different docking mechanism was on Soyuz 15 than will be used for Apollo-Soyuz.

"I have had detailed discussions with Gen. Shatalov about Soyuz 15," Stafford told the news conference. "I am firmly convinced that flight has no effect on joint flight.

"We've made a lot of progress in the last 18 months. We're on schedule to meet the launch date next July."

Burton's Health Plan Adopted

I-J Special Report

WASHINGTON — The Pentagon has withdrawn its proposal to slash mental health benefits for military dependents, Rep. John L. Burton, D-Sixth District, reported yesterday.

The congressman, who protested the cutbacks, said that Vernon McKenzie, deputy assistant secretary of defense, had canceled a June 7 directive limiting mental health treatment for military dependents to 120 days of hospital care or 40 days of outpatient treatment annually.

The new directive, effective immediately, adopted Burton's proposal that committees of doctors in each hospital determine extensions after 120-day, or 40-day periods. Opponents of the cutbacks argued that abuses of the program could be corrected without arbitrarily limiting treatment.

Cigarette Smoke Pesticide Told

ATLANTIC CITY, N.J. (AP) — Cigarette smoke may be a major source of human exposure to pesticides, a University of Kentucky scientist said today.

Dr. H. Wyman Dorough told a national meeting of the American Chemical Society that not only may the smoker be exposed but also the non-smoker who breaths in cigarette smoke.

Dorough said that assuming there is a hazard to smoking the tobacco itself, the pesticide contamination would, at the least, add a further hazard. At the worst, he said, it perhaps could produce an effect even greater than the two hazards added together.

Brown Pledges Friendlier Treatment Of University

BERKELEY (UPI) — Edmund G. Brown Jr., the Democratic candidate for governor, holds that the University of California's main problem is political interference.

Brown told student body presidents from the university's nine campuses yesterday that if elected, he would be "more supportive" of the university that the incumbent governor, Ronald Reagan.

While promising to be active in university affairs if elected, Brown declared his policy-setting role would be limited.

"I don't think the university should look to the governor as chief professor," Brown said while noting that "the main problem has been political interference in the affairs of the university."

Brown, at present secretary of state, said he would favor the appointment by the university's regents of a student who would sit as a voting member of the board.

He promised he would appoint persons to the board of regents who better reflect the state's population diversity than at present.

The candidate said his attitude toward the university would be different from Reagan's because "the places I go, the music I listen to, is a totally different world than that of Ronald Reagan."

Assuring the student leaders that he would "hold the line" on tuition and fees, Brown said he would "make sure that there is adequate loan and scholarship money available for any worthy student that needs it."

That promise was similar to the one expressed to the same group last July by Houston I. Flournoy, the Republican candidate for governor.

Concerning youthful draft dodgers, Brown said that if a citizen violates the law, "you just can't forget about it."

He said he would not favor a tradeoff under which amnesty would be given both to draft resisters and Watergate defendants.

He noted that former president Richard M. Nixon had been given an unconditional pardon, but declared: "You can't follow one bad example with another."

Flournoy Feels Debates Deserve Wider Exposure

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Houston I. Flournoy wants his debates with gubernatorial foe Edmund G. Brown Jr. to get wider exposure to the state's voters.

The two candidates have agreed on six joint meetings during their campaign, but all but one will be regional or local.

They had their first meeting Tuesday before the Sacramento Press Club and Republican Flournoy said here yesterday that "it was a shame that the debate was not carried statewide on television and radio.

"While I realize we have an agreement limiting us to six appearances, I would urge my opponent to consider opening up the campaign. We should let the people in on the campaign to the greatest extent possible.

"The question I am asking is what has Jerry Brown to hide. Other people are asking it, too."

Flournoy said that "despite some of the rhetoric, Brown believes in open campaigning less than I do."

Flournoy appeared before the California Trucking Association, San Francisco Press Club and a lawyers group.

He told the lawyers he would seek to appoint more women and minority group members as judges, if elected.

Before the trucking executives, Flournoy defended his proposal to appoint some kind of consumer representative to the California Public Utilities Commission. He said this would help restore public confidence in the commission during the present period of inevitable price increases.

Flournoy also received campaign and financial support from several relatives and appointees of Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, who himself is backing Democrat Brown.

Frank Alioto, the mayor's cousin, and Morris Bernstein, long-time political ally of the mayor and fire commissioner, even helped to sponsor a fund-raiser for Flournoy.

Rehnquist Backs Fun Judge Lives

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Supreme Court Justice William H. Rehnquist says judges would live in a "sanitized, grey world" if they had to give up club memberships and other civic activities in order to avoid the appearance of conflict of interest.

He said such a lifestyle would result "in no appreciable gain that I can see for the judicial process over what I would describe as a thoroughly ethical approach mixed with some common sense."

"It can ... end up with judges as a group living in such a sanitized, gray world that they lose some of the quality of three-dimensional human beings."

HERITAGE HOMES

Tour Sunday In Petaluma

By DOROTHY NEWELL

Four homes, a pipe organ studio, and the Odd Fellows Building in Petaluma will be on a public tour sponsored by the Heritage Homes of Petaluma from 1 to 5 p.m., Sunday.

Tickets may be purchased in advance from any Heritage Homes member or from tour chairmen Mr. and Mrs. Tony Caetano. Proceeds will be used by the organization to further its work in preserving historic local buildings.

The tour will include some of the Petaluma area's finest.

THE HOME of Mrs. Jane McMeekin Anker, formerly the Victor De Carli Mansion at 323 Post Street, was built in 1892 by John Boles.

The woodwork is the original as are many of the light fixtures. The Axminister carpeting in the drawing room, music room, foyer and master bedroom is the original, as are the oak mantel in the upstairs bedroom and carved mantel in the drawing room.

The kitchen has been moderately redesigned by Mrs. Anker, an interior decorator, to fit the Victorian period, an old and contained fashioned cast-iron-topped range. All rooms open into each other around a central space.

THE HOME of Mr. and Mrs. William Doty at 335 Bassett Street was built in 1906 as a turn-of-the-century bungalow. Additions and alterations have been done in the Early American theme. The gardens will be utilized for the wine and cheese tasting during the tour. The crown modelings in the main rooms along with the Palladian niches and custom knotty pine paneling are worthy of note. Doty is an attorney and Mrs. Doty his legal secretary.

The three-story home of Susan Gail Cook at 10 Keller street was built for the Cavanaugh family, whose lumber business made the best redwood available for its interior finish. Redwood has been used throughout the home. The house was built in 1902 and was originally situated behind the old city hall before being moved to its present location. All original fixtures are of etched glass and brass, except for the dining room chandelier.

Built in 1906, the home of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Callahan at 342 Keller Street, sits on a steep hillside. Views of the valley and the Sonoma mountains can be seen from the home. The steeply sloped roof was inspired by thatched European cottages. This building was in poor condition when purchased by the Callahans but has been thoroughly restored.

EARLE BOND'S organ studio at 25 Western Avenue is on the second floor of the old Mutual Relief Association building, built in 1885 as investment property for the Mutual Relief Association, a non-profit insurance company which failed soon afterward. A number of well-known lawyers — Lippet, Howell, Myers and Moskowitz — occupied offices in the building for a number of years but its large stairways made the building impractical for law offices, and the building was eventually deserted. It remained empty until 1945 when Mr. and Mrs. Jack Ashbaugh leased it as living quarters. Present owner of the building, marked as a valuable historical landmark by the California Heritage Council, is Jack Perry of San Rafael.

Bond, an organist and interior designer, said he has decorated each room to give it the flair of a theater lobby. He calls the style "italienate rococo," and concedes much of the elaborate decor was done with tongue in cheek. There is a working fireplace, walk-in safe, music room, library and ballroom.

BUILT IN 1877 and occupied continuously since that time by the Petaluma Lodge 30 of the International Organization of Odd Fellows, the well proportioned and elegantly ornamented three-story commercial building at 111 Petaluma Boulevard North features cast iron trim and columns and a combination of cast iron, wood and sheet metal ornamentations. The wood exterior decorations are handcarved, unlike most exterior decorations of the period which were machine made.

The lodge hall has an elaborate 26-foot plastered ceiling, a balcony and ornate Victorian ceremonial chairs. The ladies lounge contains 60-year old drapes and rattan furnishings. The third floor banquet hall has a collection of chairs and the kitchen a cast-iron-topped stove and Gothic storage cabinets.

As a nonprofit corporation, Heritage Homes of Petaluma aims to show the economic, social, community and personal advantages of preserving historic buildings, according to Dennis W. Pooler, president.

THE GROUP waged a campaign to save the former Christian Church across from Petaluma City Hall. This structure, site of the tour's main ticket center and an historic display, was slated by the city to be razed for a parking lot. It is now known as the Five Corners Community Center and Heritage Homes was the key mover in making it so by using proceeds from the 1972 tour to reroof the building, first step toward restoration, according to Pooler.

Members of Heritage Homes were also instrumental in having an historic and landmark zoning ordinance adopted by the city in the past year.

SCENE FOR WINE-TASTING — The home of Mr. and Mrs. William Doty will be the scene for a wine-and-cheese-tasting during Sunday's house tour. Here hostesses Barbara Lind (seated) and Andi Noland pose in the living room of the home, which features Paddadian niches and custom knotty pine paneling and cabinetry.

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Marinites To Help Open Annual SF Opera Season

By MOLLY MARIN

Marinites will be among the fashionable crowd attending tomorrow night's opening of the 1974 San Francisco Opera season.

Following the performance of Puccini's "Manon Lescaut" the San Francisco Opera Guild will honor William H. Orrick Jr., past president of the opera association, at the gala Opera Ball at the Veterans Auditorium.

Planning to attend the ball are former Ross resident, Mr. and Ms. William Matson Roth of San Francisco; Horace Hayes of Sausalito; and Mr. and Mrs. John Lonergan of Belvedere.

Joyce Brantman of Tiburon is serving on the ball committee. The ball will have a New Orleans garden theme, and the auditorium will be decorated like a French pavilion with lattice work surrounding the orchestra, tall candelabra around the perimeter of the dance floor and palms and cypress lining the walls of the ballroom.

PAMELA KAY Goodman, daughter of Isadore Goodman of Sausalito, left Marin County last week to spend a year in Sussex, England, where she will continue her studies.

She and her father plan to open a riding academy in Marin when she returns.

Her sister Vickie has just returned from an 8,500-mile driving tour through the United States. She visited her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Stern in Vineland, N.J. She is a psychology student at Sonoma State College.

ROSE MARIE Webb was honored recently at a reception at St. Raphael's Social Hall by members of Court St. Raphael's, Catholic Daughters of America.

Mrs. Webb was recently appointed state chairman of civic involvement for the Catholic Daughters of America.

Among the guests were Grace Rinaldi, state regent; Rose Ellen Murphy, first state regent; Ruth Gates, regent of Court Hayward; Marie Reinier, regent of Court Golden Gate; and Eileen Gillys, regent of Court of Lady of the Miracles.

THE WILLIAM DiGrazias are back at their home in Tiburon after a whirlwind summer that included a trip to Spain and England, and some time relaxing at Lake Tahoe.

YOUR CHILD'S HEALTH

Start Correct Food Early

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
and
BRIAN SULLIVAN
(Fourth in a series)

"A kid is not a garbage pail."

So speaks one doctor in trying to say several things:

Children grow in spurts. When they are in a slow growth phase, they don't need or want as much food as before. Trying to force them to eat everything on their plate could turn them against those dishes. And children see the illogic of being told: "Don't waste that food. Think of the starving children in India." That food is in front of them, not in India.

What children choose as snacks can be a dietary disaster. Try to guide choices in these "mini-meals."

Bad diets in early life can damage a child's brain. Some scientists estimate the brain cell count in children who had very bad diets early in life may be 20 per cent below normal when they become adults.

The food habits you start a child out with may be dooming him to a premature heart attack. This can be avoided.

"My impression is that parents make the most headway in molding food habits during the time from weaning to school years," says Dr. Philip L. White, director of the American Medical Association's Department of Food and Nutrition.

"Dietary habits are built for better or worse when a child comes to table food and experiences the interactions at the table with the family.

"Both parents should be involved in teaching the importance of a variety of foods and control of the portions," Dr. White continues. "The child should learn to enjoy food at the table, instead of filling up on frivolous foods in between meals."

Parents should take an honest look at their own food habits, he adds, because "dear old Dad may be at fault, giving food a bad name. He may insist his child eat a normal range of foods, but himself be strictly a meat and potatoes man."

Since a child's appetite doesn't stay constant in various phases of growth and development, parents can well be less critical at dinner table, dropping such demands as: "Eat, because it's good for you!" (That's what parents also say about some bad tasting medicines.)

Demanding perfect table manners quickly is often beyond a child's skills, and can make the dinner table a place where he feels under attack, uncomfortable, not hungry.

It isn't just children in economically poor families who are victims of poor food habits and poor nutrition. Malnutrition occurs in wealthy families because parents don't serve up balanced meals, even with a big budget.

Food fads, adopted by parents and thrust on their children, can lead to bad nutrition. And bad nutrition can result from over-reliance on numerous prepared or "convenience" foods. Some highly-advertised foods are simply flops in nutrition. Read the labels!

How do you tell if a child isn't consuming the right diet? Some signs of malnutrition, says Dr. White, are failure to grow and thrive, too thin, lethargic, irritable, pallor as from anemia, dull hair and lacklustre eyes, sores around the mouth, poor eye adaptation to dim light, flaccid muscles, easy tiring, sore bleeding gums, apathy, and a short attention span. Such symptoms call for having a doctor check them out.

Novato Foundation Receives Special Gift

The Novato Hostess Service has contributed advertising space on its telephone book cover, valued at $1,000, to the Novato Civic Foundation, a nonprofit group engaged in civic projects.

The book is given to people moving into Novato and the advertisements will acquaint newcomers with the foundation's goals, past projects and its current project to restore Novato's historic "oldtown" area, according to Ellen Fusso, foundation publicity chairman.

Mill Valley Girl Plans Wedding

The engagement of Teresa Jenkins and Phillip W. Barth has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Jenkins of Mill Valley.

Mr. and Mrs. William P. Barth of Louisville, Ky., are the future bridegroom's parents. He is the grandson of Frank L. Barth, and Mrs. Katherine Bruenderman, both of Louisville. He is the brother of Ed, Mike and Tim Reuter, and Dan, Barbara, Karen and Paula Barth, all of Kentucky.

Teresa is the granddaughter of Mrs. C. R. Jenkins of Mill Valley and Mrs. Harry S. Bunker of Colorado Springs, Colo. Her sisters are Mrs. Charles R. Mathews of Crescent City, and Kathleen Polanshek of Edinburg, Scotland.

The bride was graduated from Tamalpais High School, attended the College of Marin and is a senior student at Stanford University in Palo Alto.

Phillip is a graduate of Trinity High School in Louisville. He attended the University of Notre Dame at Notre Dame, Ind., and obtained the bachelor of science and master of science degrees at Stanford University, where he is continuing graduate studies.

A June 28, 1975 wedding date has been set.

Only 50 years ago, lobster was held in such low esteem gastronomically that Downeast farmers in Maine spread the creatures over their fields as fertilizer.

GENERATION RAP

by Helen and Sue Bottel

RAP:

This is the "male chauvenist chimp" (so-called by you and your dumb correspondents). I had to write you another letter after reading all that garbage people said about me, just because I expressed manly views about women's place.

Honet, I got more complaints because I accidentally misspelled the word "chauvinist" than about what I said. Doesn't that show women are too silly to be anything but followers in a man's world?

Some of those who mocked and condemned me should consult a psychiatrist. I say again:

Men: be strong, virile, rugged like me and watch your love life improve. Keep those females in line and don't take any guff.

Last: Bravo for that one girl who sided with me. She has all the qualities of a real woman and wife. I'd sure like to meet her. — CHAMPION MALE CHAUVINIST (spelled right this time to please my critics)

DEAR CHAUV:

If you need to meet her, maybe your love life isn't as booming as you imply. Sorry I sound snide, but you bring out the worst in me, Champ. — HELEN

CHAMP CHAUV.:

Why are you so threatened? Seems to me a secure man would welcome a mate who was a partner, not a slavey. — SUE

DEAR HELEN AND SUE:

I agree wholeheartedly with the angry male who said girls shouldn't play Little League baseball. I'm surprised their parents (particularly the mothers) would even consider it.

You said if a girl has the ability, why not? I ask you, if a man has the ability to slip on a dress and model it in a fashion show, does that make it right? Woman's femininity: it can't be endangered!

Girls should act like girls! — ANOTHER MALE CHAUVINIST

DEAR "ANOTHER":

Correction: You used a different pen, different stationery, and sent your letter from a different station, but you didn't change your handwriting and it pegs you as our old friend, "Champion Male Chauvenist," otherwise known as "Chimp" or "Chump" by our irate correspondents.

I'll bet your theme song is a ditty my great-grandmother used to chant (and I doubt that even she believed it(: "A whistling girl and a crowing hen, always come to some bad end."

Batter up! — HELEN

DEAR CHAMP CHAUV (again):

Women's feminity endangered by competitive sports? Billie Jean King will get you for that! Read on:

DEAR RAP:

I'm writing to "Angry Male" who says girls should play with dolls and stay out of athletics.

I've been on co-ed swimming teams most of my life. There's no sex discrimination; and no ego problems here! Some of the guys come to me for help on their swim strokes, and I've been team captain, also voted "Most Inspirational" member.

No, A. M., I'm not a bra-burner or a 6-foot Amazon. (Actually I'm 5 feet 2.) I'm just a sports-loving girl who thinks male and female alike should be given credit for whatever they excel in. Athletic doesn't mean unfeminine! (I collect dolls as well as medals.) — MS. SEPARATE BUT EQUAL

Got a problem? Or a subject for discussion, two-generation style? Direct your questions to either Sue or Helen Bottel — or both, if you want a combination mother-daughter answer — c/o the Independent-Journal, PO Box 330, 1040 B St., San Rafael, Ca. 94902.

Growth Of Nose Ends In The 30s

The upper half of a woman's face stops growing in about her 15th year, her eyes reach their full size by age eight or nine and her nose stops growing by the time she's 30, according to Redbook magazine.

Men's noses keep growing until they're 45 or more. That's why a man's face changes more noticeably over his adult years than does a woman's.

In the 1870's a trip up the coast could turn out to be an exciting experience. More than one traveler traded his money for an original poem by the infamous "Black Bart."

Today that kind of excitement has died down, but there's still plenty of poetry along The Sea Ranch coast. And if your taste runs to Robinson Jeffers rather than Black Bart it could be you're a Sea Ranch person too.

We now have many properties available, including forest and ocean view sites outside the permit zone, and new ocean view homes with several floor plans. Come join us—and meet some Sea Ranch people this weekend!

SAVE UP TO 30% ON ALL RUGS IN STOCK

In recent years the U.S. has experienced a tremendous revival of interest in crafts and nature. The age old process of rug making, one of man's oldest skills, has gained renewed recognition. Oriental rugs are the undisputed leaders in popularity and value. Why is this so?

Oriental rugs are a delight to the eye. Any atmosphere can be enhanced by their beauty and distinction. The variety of colors and designs runs the gamut from delicate, formal florals to bold, dramatic geometrics.

In addition to offering beauty and elegance, oriental rugs are unequaled in durability. Machine made carpets and area rugs wear relatively rapidly, and wall-to-wall carpets quickly begin to show paths of traffic. But a fine hand-woven rug will last a lifetime. Wear actually enhances the appearance, bringing out the luster of the wool and mellowing the colors. And in our mobile society where the average family moves every five years, more people are buying rugs which can be moved along with them.

Furthermore, oriental rugs are proven investments which normally appreciate more than 10% each year. With the modernization of major rug producing countries such as Iran, fewer people are willing to work long hours at looms for low wages. And with the constant demand for rugs in Europe, the Arab states and more recently the USA, prices have zoomed. Better a rug in the living room than the Dow in the cellar.

We at Rezaian Persian Rug Company are proud of our selection of over 3500 authentic oriental rugs which we import directly. Although rugs from Iran are our specialty, you will also find fine pieces from China, Afghanistan, the Caucasus, Turkey and North Africa. Each rug comes with a guarantee for a full value trade in at any time.

During our annual sale, September 12th through the 30th, we are offering our entire stock at savings of up to 30%. We invite you to visit our showroom at 256 Shoreline Highway (Stinson Beach turnoff) in Mill Valley to take advantage of these unusual savings.

We take this opportunity to invite you to visit our other store, MIMI, at 589 Bridgeway, Sausalito for a fine selection of exotic gifts and imports.

MARRIED IN 1914

Active, Happy After 60 Years

Mr. and Mrs. Harald Paulsen had been talking about the 60 years of their marriage, and Paulsen hugged the interviewer and said: "See you in another 60 years."

Such a statement would not be hard to believe in the presence of the white-haired but agile Paulsens, who radiated good health, good humor and pleasure in their long marriage in a conversation at their Santa Venetia home.

Theri marriage united a Danish family tree (his) that he has traced back to the year 1111, and a noted Spanish land grant family (hers) that came to California "around the Horn" more than a century ago.

Edna Carrillo and Harald Paulsen were married on Sept. 1, 1914, at the Trinity Evangelical English Lutheran Church in San Francisco, two years after they had met at a Leap Year Dance in the city.

Harald had come to the Saturday night party at the Swedish American Hall with a friend, and spotted the tiny 18-year-old Edna, "with long black hair she could sit on," and asked her to dance. "That was against the rules at a 'backwards' dance, and right away they fined me 50 cents. I didn't have 50 cents, and had to borrow it from my brother." It turned out Edna didn't know how to dance anyway, so the pair sat on the sidelines and talked till 2 a.m. "The I took her home and we sat on her front porch and talked till 6."

"He asked if he could see me the next day, and I thought he meant Monday. But he was back again about four hours later — I hadn't had time to sleep at all."

They became engaged in 1913, and were married the following year.

"We went on our honeymoon to Healdsburg," he recalled. "We took the ferry to Sausalito, and the train to Healdsburg, where we were met by a man with a wagon and team 'who drove them to their honeymoon cottage'. "I had $7 in my pocket," he said.

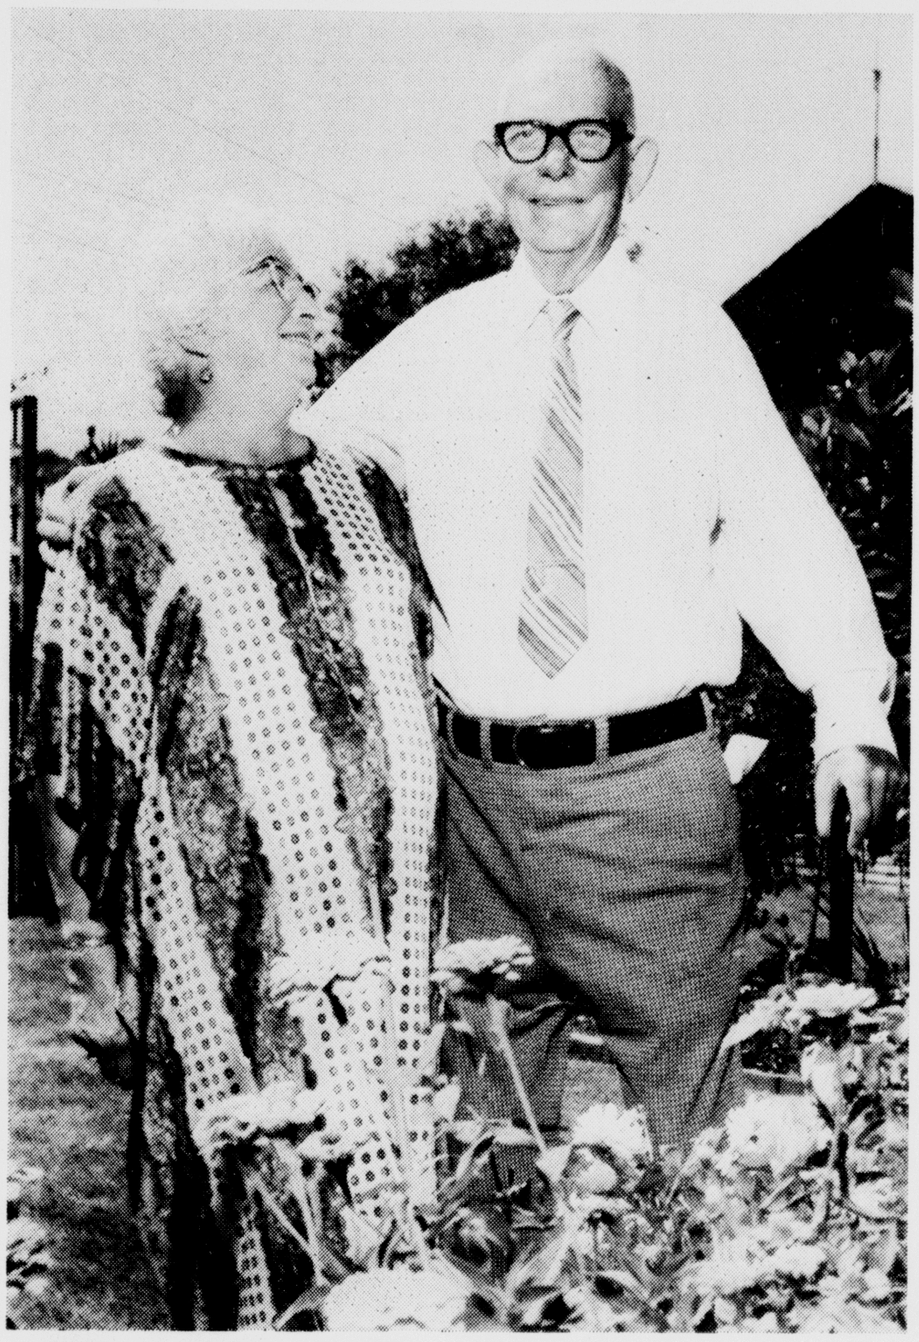

A month there, a brief interlude living in Half Moon Bay, and then the Paulsens moved to Marin where they have lived for the remainder of their 60 years together.

Their first home was at the foot of Wolfe Grade, where he milked cows for a Mrs. Rogers, then got a job digging ditches on the old highway past Escalle's in Larkspur. "He only weighed about 130 pounds," Mrs. Paulsen recalls, "and would come home so tired, so dirty."

He later got a job with the Northwestern Pacific Railroad, working as timekeeper with repair crews all along the line to Willets. For some years after that he took tickets at the ferry slip in Sausalito, and in 1917 began a seven-year stint as a statistician for Standard Oil Co. in San Francisco.

Their home then was in Fairfax, and their three chiclern had been born: Muriel (now Muriel Facha of Sacramento) on Columbus Day 1916, Harald Jr. (now living in Santa Venetia) on Halloween, 1920, and Barbara (now Barbara Faustine of San Rafael Meadows) on the Fourth of July four years later.

"All my children were born at home," Mrs. Paulsen recalls. "When I was expecting Barbara my cousin came down from Santa Rosa to help me. On the morning of July 4th, she said to me, 'you'd better have the baby today, it's the last holiday for a long time.' And within half an hour, I began having labor pains."

AFTER 60 YEARS OF MARRIAGE — Edna Paulsen smiles up at her husband Harald, in the back yard of their Santa Venetia home where they recently talked about the 60th anniversary of their marriage in San Francisco.

In 1925, Paulsen became a milkman for the Marin County Milk Co., later the Borden Dairy Delivery Co. He worked there for 32 years, retiring in 1957 at age 65.

Retirement didn't last long: he went to work for 15½ more years as desk clerk at Bermuda Palms. He left thatjob a year ago. "I looked for another job, but no one wanted to hire me. They said I was too old." Paulsen was 82 on Sept. 1, the anniversary date.

"But I've kept busy," he said, showing his visitor the shop where he operates jigsaw, bandsaw, table saw and sanders to make tables, chairs "and a new stand for the crib I was born in, so my great grandchild (due in five weeks) can sleep in it."

"He's retired, but I'm not," laughed Mrs. Paulsen. "I still care for the house" (spotless) "and care for my plants and my garden." She conducted a tour of the extensive lanai area where plants in tubs and hanging pots grew in profusion, out onto the manicured back lawn to the fish pond her husband had built.

On the way she patted her 1956 Oldsmobile, snug under a blanket in the garage. "I take good care of it," she said. In answer to a question, "of course I still drive it. And wash it and polish it, too."

He has documentation of his family tree dating back to the 12th Century, and points out with a twinkle that "there's a king in there, and several horse thieves." Mrs. Paulsen has an illustrious family tree, too — the Carrillos (the late actor Leo Carrillo among them) were a land grant family who once owned all the land north of General Mariano Vallejo's properties up to and encompassing the City of Santa Rosa.

"It's been a busy life. I have no regrets," said Mr. Paulsen. I have a wonderful wife, and three of the most adorable children you'd ever want to see.

"We've been very happy."

ART REVIEW

Works By Stoelzel Are Awesome And Intriguing

By ADA GARFINKEL

SAN FRANCISCO — An exhibit of Martin Stoelzel's recent oil paintings at the Van Doren Gallery offers works that are handsome to behold, awesome to contemplate and intriguing to fathom.

Stoelzel, chairman of the art department at the College of Marin for the past year, has been a major vitalizing influence in the department ever since he joined the art faculty in 1967. His "magic-realist" style, inventiveness, warmth and enthusiasm have inspired a charismatic cult of followers.

Stoelzel's metaphysical and allegorical themes are replete with moral and procreative symbolism. Birds and animals serve as character surrogates for individual or social traits.

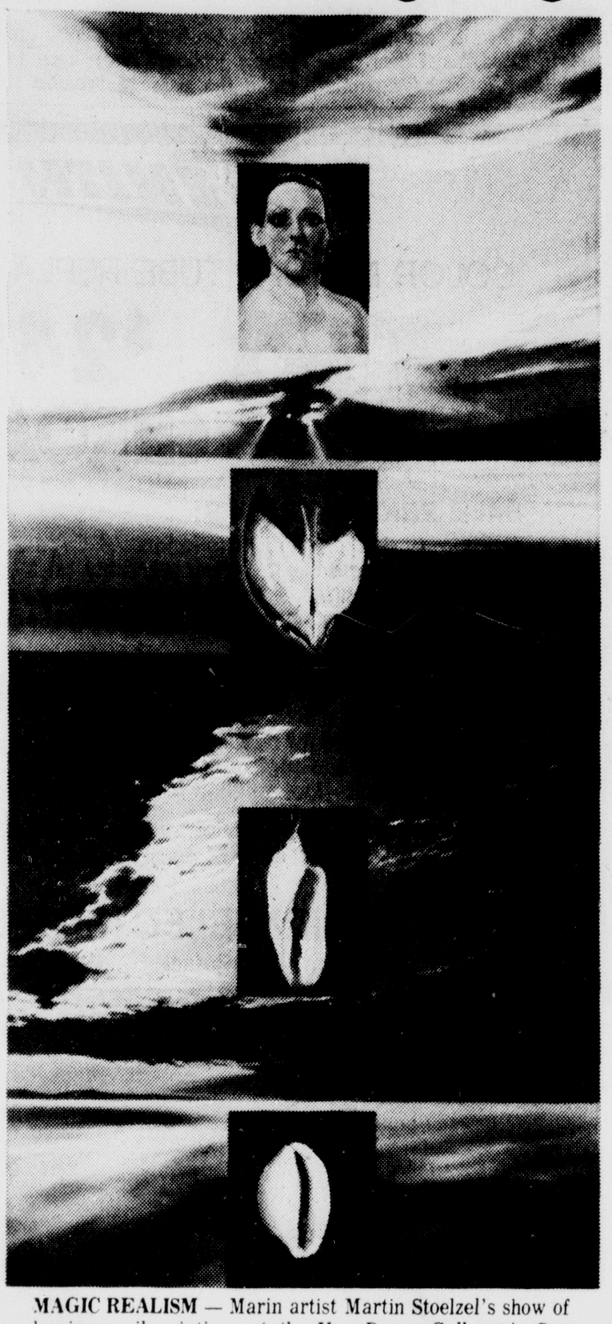

For example, storm clouds may be read as forecasts of threat, while pelvic-shaped formations of clouds and organically conical mountains convey the sensual aspects of nature.

One of Stoelzel's most provocative works deals with role reversals, and occurs in "Cathedral of the Absurd." Here, on the double stage of an open-air, art-deco theater, a male nude is the sex symbol. The fluidity of the flame-colored sky, the sexual configurations in the clouds and hills and the allusion to crucifixion in his upraised arms are indicative of the emphasis on sex roles in certain areas of theatre and media.

Stoelzel often floats transparent cruciforms in broad open spaces suggestive of lushly primitive, uninhabited earth. In his most recent paintings, however — "The Prophet" series — for instance, he makes us aware that the atmosphere is changing, morally and environmentally.

These paintings are smaller and the imagery is greatly simplified. The head of a single bird or animal is centered toward the top of a transparent cross, with murky, threatening storm clouds shown in the crossbar. They are almost minimal paintings.

Each of "The Prophet" series is accompanied by a moral admonition as part of the title, as for instance: "Wisdom of Wildness," "Commit All To God," "The Tongue To Be Bridled," and "On Strike Against The Passions."

Stoelzel's urgency and moral indignation, his pronounced simplification in the series and his resort to verbalization are thoughtfully and effectively controlled.

Visually and pictorially, Stoelzel's beautiful women, enchanting and provocative flora and fauna and primordial life are timelessly fascinating.

His show will continue through Sept. 28 and may be seen Tuesday through Saturday from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. The Van Doren Gallery is located at 1830 Union Street.

Signs Found Of Indian Civilization

CHAMPAIGN, Ill. (UPI) — Recent archeological diggings in Ecuador have revealed a completely new chapter in the prehistory of that country and all of South America, according to a University of Illinois archeologist.

Prof. Donald W. Lathrap, who has just returned from Ecuador, said yesterday he found that prehistoric Indians who had been believed to be simple fishermen and shellfish collectors were in fact settled farmers, making pottery and living in communities of more than 1,000 inhabitants.

Lathrap four years ago was credited with reversing the thinking about the spread of prehistoric civilization along the Amazon River, showing that culture moved from the lowlands instead of from the mountains as previously thought.

His newest studies involve the Valdivia Indians, who lived in the Ecuador lowlands 5,000 years ago. The significance of these Indians on cultural development in the Western Hemisphere has gone unrecognized, Lathrap said.

"The Valdivia had a well developed civilization which has been overlooked because they did not build with stone," Lathrap said.

MOTION PICTURE GUIDE

The Council's findings are from the California and National Parent-Teacher Association Magazine and Parents' Magazine, unless otherwise stated. FAMILY

"The Mad Adventures of Rabbi Jacobs" — A madcap comedy-satire, less a movie than a vehicle for well-loved French star Louis de Funes. Lots of slapstick but some very realistic satire on the social and ethnic order of things — a film all the family can enjoy.

"Slither" — An oddball comedy-suspense story well acted, but never funny or exciting as it should be — not for little children.

"Ten from Your Show of Shows" — Hilarious clips from the popular TV series of Sid Caeser and Imogene Coca. Very entertaining.

"That's Entertainment" — Juicy compilation of excerpts from the best old MGM musicals gives a lift to the spirit and a true insight into what entertainment is meant to be. A bit sophisticated for children under 10.

ADULTS AND TEENS

"Black Windmill" — Double agent, Michael Caine rescues son from kidnappers in contrived but well-acted spy thriller. Violence (Over 15).

"Brother Sun, Sister Moon" — A picturesque and dramatic portrayal of St. Francis of Assisi and the founding of the Franciscan order in 1200 A.D.

"Day of The Jackel" — Careful adaptation of Frederick Forsyth's best seller about a paid assassin hired to kill French President Charles de Gaulle. Good photography, well acted & exciting for those over 13.

"Man on a Swing" — An intriguing story of murder & clairvoyance. For those over 15.

"Skin Game" — A comedy Western with humor baudier than usual. The film deals with slavery just before the Civil War. Good acting overcomes material that could easily have been tasteless. (Not for children) B.O.

"The Tamarind Seed" — Julie Andrews and Omar Sharif star in an engrossing but over-long mixture of romance and espionage.

"Three Musketeers" — A spirited production of the classic story of bravery and intrigue. Very entertaining but some sex and violence.

"Uptown Saturday Night" — Delightful ghetto comedy with a distinguished cast, headed by Harry Belafonte, Bill Cosby, Flip Wilson and Sidney Poitier. Strong visual humor. Some coarse language.

BORDER LINE

"The Apprenticeship of Duddy Kravitz" — Well-made but cynical story of ambitious young man from Montreal's Jewish Ghetto — Cursing, sex (Over 16)

"California Split" — A series of comic episodes showing two men who get their kicks from gambling. Foul language (Over 17)

"The Conversation" — A low-keyed drama about a master wire-tapper, nudity, violence. Exciting in spots. (For those over 16)

"Lady Sings the Blues" — A fiction-alized biography of the late blues singer, Billie Holiday. A prostitute and heroin addict. A drama well-told with a message on drugs. (Mature teens)

ADULTS ONLY

"Chinatown" — Gruesome mystery set in Los Angeles of 1937. Good cast and costuming. Brutal violence and nude love scenes.

"Godfather" — Mario Puzo's best seller about the Mafia. One of the most violence and bloddy films ever put on the screen. Nudity.

"The Groove Tube" — In spite of some hilarious moments, this spoof of American TV diet is mostly in very poor taste. Excessive nudity, sex, cursing.

"Open Season" — A story of three Vietnam War buddies who like hunting their fellow man. Good casting but a grim story of senseless killings, nudity, rape and raw language.

"Thunderbolt and Lightfoot" — Clint Eastwood and Jeff Bridges add special interest to routine bank caper — nudity, sex, violence, cursing.

"The Valachi Papers" — Based on Joe Valachi's testimony before a U.S. Senate Investigating Committee in 1963. Just another mob-land melodrama, capitalizing on sensational murders, violence, nudity, cursing.

Japanese Tycoon Is Hotel Buyer

HONOLULU (UPI) — The Sheraton Hawaii Corp. has sold the Sheraton Waikiki, the Royal Hawaiian and the Sheraton Maui hotels to Japanese financier Kenji Osano.

There was no mention of price in the brief, two-paragraph announcement, but sources close to the negotiations said it was in excess of $100 million.

The announcement said Sheraton would continue to operate the hotels under a long-term management contract.

KIND CAT, CALM QUAIL

Softie proves she has a soft heart as she provides a soft perch for Woodstock, pet quail of the Russell W. Labelle family of Sleepy Hollow. Audrey LaBelle reports not only that the two are great friends, but that Woodstock, whom she raised from an egg, is very attached to her as well, often sharing her bed and on cold night making her way under the covers to the foot. Hinde's Captain Likes Old Ways

LONDON (AP) — Capt. Adrian Small is a man of sail in an age of diesel turbines. And only reluctantly will he make concessions to the 20th Century.

Small, a laconic Briton who has been sailing square-rigged wooden ships since he was 16, will command a reproduction of Sir Francis Drake's flagship, the Golden Hinde, on a 13,000 mile voyage to San Francisco this fall.

The Golden Hinde II was built in Appledore, Devonshire on Britain's west coast using the techniques and materials of the 16th century. But for the voyage she'll carry modern steering gear, a long-range radio, 1 150-horsepower auxiliary engine, canned food and two modern toilets.

"I would myself prefer to sail the ship 100 per cent period," the 45-year-old skipper said in an interview as the vessel lay alongside the tower of London and chattering tourists tramped through.

"We don't have the confidence in the modern stuff we have in the other parts. We'd well like to do without it. But because it is 1974, we must be able to report our position occasionally, we must get to places in a reasonable time, and so on."

The 300-ton reproduction was commissioned by a consortium of San Francisco businessmen and will be moored as a floating museum in San Francisco Bay, where some historians think Drake stopped for repairs in June 1579 during his trip around the world.

After five months in London as a tourist attraction, the Golden Hinde II unfurled her sails Sept. 1 and headed down the Thames in a pelting rain for the south coast port of Dartmouth to take on provisions.

Then she will go to Plymouth, where Drake set sail in 1577, to wait for favorable winds around the end of the month. Small hopes to be in San Francisco by April.

"Everything in this ship in the way of the Elizabethan period we can do," the red-bearded captain said. "There are men in the crew who can make the sails, the rigging, the spars, caulk the hull, plank the hull, repair the hull, repair the rudder and tiller, do the anchors and windlasses. All the old stuff.

"But, 100 to 1, what will happen is that some of the modern mechanical stuff will fail, and we can't do anything other than send back to the makers after a spare part. We're stuck there."

Small said he began his sailing career on square-rigged cargo ships that used to carry timber from the Baltic, round Cape Horn to Australia and then bring grain back to Europe.

When the last of these vessels went out of service around 1949 he reluctantly shifted to steamships, but tried to pick up "with the odd sailing ship that came along."

Small was second mate on a reproduction of the Mayflower that sailed from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass., in 1957, spent several years in the 1960s aboard sailing ships used in such movies as "Billy Budd," "Hawaii" and "Son of Captain Blood," and then skippered the "Nonsuch," commissioned by the Hudson's Bay Co. for a 300th anniversary voyage to Canada in 1970.

"I'm just an ordinary fellow who likes to sail ships," Small said.

"The Golden Hinde crew are people who are very keen to make the passage because it appeals to them in one way or another as an adventure," he added.

"But my attraction is the same that you get nowadays with model railways. Enthusiasm for a particular bit of history or subject. That's what it is."

Fairfax Man Gets Sentence

Robert Louis Lombardi, 18, of Fairfax, was sentenced yesterday to 30 days in Marin County Jail for beating an off-duty Mill Valley policeman.

Lombardi was convicted of battery last month by a jury in Marin Municipal Court.

Judge Robert A. Smallman also placed Lombardi on three year's probation and ordered him to pay Murphy's medical bills.

A WORD TO THE WISE

This deputy sheriff goes about his business in no uncertain way. Independent Journal photographer Alfred M. Arn, waiting at a stop sign yesterday in Terra Linda, took due notice and later reported: "I decided not to pass him."

Novato Teacher Reports Differ

Novato teachers, voting on ratification of an 8.4 per cent pay hike, yesterday received conflicting recommendations from representatives of rival teacher organizations.

The four-member majority of the teacher negotiating group, members of the Novato Teachers Association, recommended ratification of an agreement approved by the Novato Unified School District board Tuesday night.

The three minority members of the negotiating group, members of the Novato Federation of Teachers, recommended rejecting the offer or refusing to vote.

Their reports came at a teacher meeting at Novato High School just before ratification voting started.

The ballot choice is to accept the settlement and continue to work or reject it and strike. Voting was to continue until 4 p.m. today at the Novato Community House.

Tali Sundberg, presenting the majority report, described the tentative agreement, including salary provisions, as "an excellent settlement."

"Because the minority wasn't listened to, half the teachers were disenfranchised," she said.

The NTA has more membership than the NFT among the approximately 450 teachers in the district, but the latter claims membership is nearly half and half.

Women Voters Meeting Slated

The League of Women Voters of Central Marin will hold its first fall membership meeting at 7:30 p.m. Sept. 20 at the San Rafael home of Dr. James W. Good, 310 Highland Avenue.

The league's membership used to be entirely female, so it usually met during the day. The change to a night meeting is a result of its recent decision to admit men.

Robert L. Henn and Paul D. Kayfetz, the attorneys leading a suit against the Warm Springs Dam, will report on the action at 8:30 p.m. The league is a party to the suit, filed by the Warm Springs Task Force.

Coastal Panel Wants To Keep Shoreline Highway A Two-Laner

Shoreline Highway should remain a scenic two-lane road, with most of its traffic capacity reserved for recreational use, the staff of the coast commission proposed yesterday.

The staff stressed that public transit should be available "through the length of the coastal zone," and said that in some areas especially threatened by traffic transit should be the only method of travel.

The proposals were issued by the North Central Coast Regional Commission in a "bulletin" of policies to guide its planning for the Marin, Sonoma and San Francisco coasts.

Public forums to get public reaction to the latest set of proposed policies, all at 7:30 p.m., will be held Monday at the Santa Rosa Public Library, Tuesday at the First Unitarian Church in San Francisco, Wednesday at the Lake Merritt Boat House in Oakland, and next Thursday at Granada School in Corte Madera.

The policies, the seventh in a series of nine, will go before the commission on Oct. 10 for possible revisions.

The new report also proposed strict limits on residential and commercial development along Shoreline Highway. Objecting that increased traffic congestion "makes a mess out of the coastal experience for visitors and residents," it pointed out congestion alone does not control growth. As an example, it cited Sausalito.

Detailing a "capacity budget" for the coastal road, the report said each segment should have a portion of its capacity reserved for recreational use. Commercial, residential and other nonpublic developments would be allowed only up to the point where they begin to impinge on the road capacity reserved for recreational use.

The commission or a successor would enforce the policies, according to the report. This would take new state law after the commission submits its plan to the 1976 Legislature.

The commission also should have veto power over new transportation links to the coast, the report said.

As for various state plans to upgrade Shoreline Highway, the report cautioned, the present roadway "would be utterly destroyed by its widening to 'modern' two-lane standards, let alone 'improvement' to a four-lane highway." Only roadway improvements that correct safety problems should be permitted, it said.

The staff also proposed that parking areas be built well back from the coast, new airports be prohibited and that bikepaths and walkways be developed along the entire coast.

Developers should be required to dedicate easements for bikepaths and walkways, it suggested, bike racks should be provided at beach parking areas and buses should accommodate bicycles.

Enrollment Climbs In Lagunitas

Enrollment is up, especially in kindergarten, in the Lagunitas School District, so the board last night voted to hire another kindergarten teacher.

Kindergarten enrollment is 37 compared to 22 last year, according to Supt. Harry F. Roche.

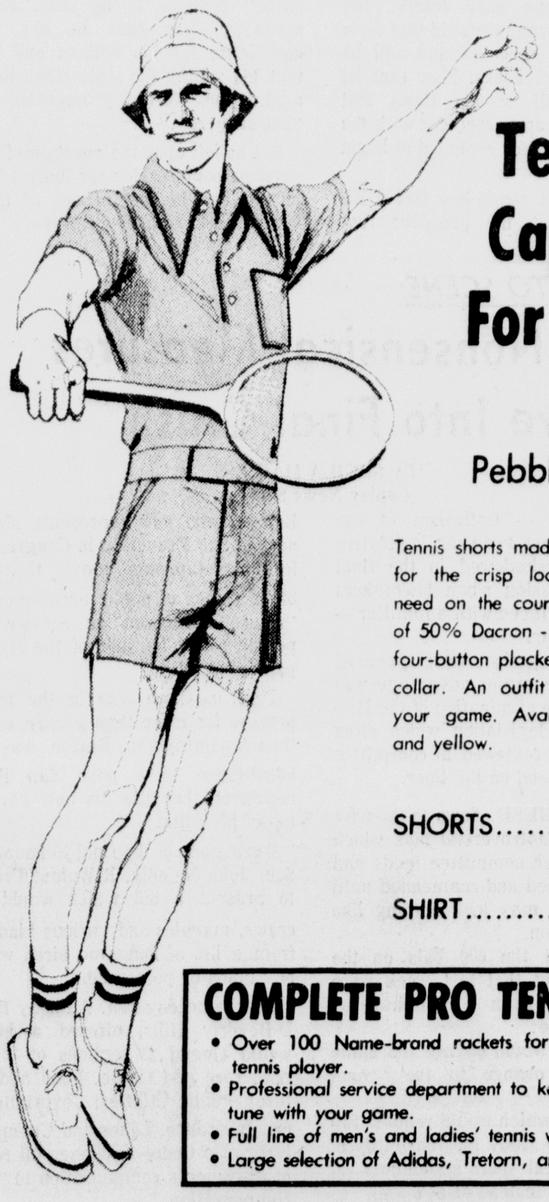

Total enrollment this year is 524, up 25 students over last year, he said. This breaks down into 137 students in the open classroom program, 187 in the academic plus program, 101 in the advance basic capabilities program and 99 in the seventh and eighth grade programs, Roche said.

The board also voted to hire eight instructional aides at $3.10 per hour for three hours per day.

Board president Richard C. Sloan announced that he would be at the school from 3 to 4 p.m. each Friday so that parents can discuss their children with him.

The board set 7:30 p.m. next Thursday for a special meeting to formulate a policy statement on teacher evaluation.

TODAY'S EDITORIAL

If It's Fair For Alioto, It's Fair For All

A very interesting thing happened in San Francisco last week. Mayor Joseph L. Alioto made public a list of his law clients.

The list proved interesting. Several firms on it have had dealings with the City of San Francisco. Seven of them are regulated by the city in various ways.

Mayor Alioto did not put out this list strictly on his own initiative. San Francisco's City Atty. Thomas O'Connor said he had to do so to comply with a newly adopted city charter amendment designed to disclose possible conflicts of interested by the city's office holders. City Attorney O'Connor, it may be safely assumed, is not now on Mayor Alioto's list of favorite people.

Independent-Journal
SERVING ALL OF MARIN COUNTY
24 SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA, THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1974 EDITORIAL PAGE

THE PUBLICATION of the San Francisco mayor's legal clients was precedent-setting.

Legislators at national and state levels, in writing conflict-of-interest laws, have been careful to exclude lawyers from them. That, it may be safely assumed, is because so many legislators are lawyers.

These lawyer-legislators have stretched a cloak of "attorney-client confidentiality" to cover disclosure of their own clients, much as President Richard M. Nixon tried to stretch a cloak of "national security" to cover Watergate.

Of course, any time an attorney files a legal paper for a client, he has to put his name on it. So to pretend that "attorney-client confidentiality" precludes the lawyer from disclosing who pays him is pretty thin. But it is the type of legalistic games-playing that appeals to many in the legal profession.

WE DON'T HAVE such a disclosure law elsewhere. Maybe we should have. In the meantime, it would be healthy if all other lawyer-office holders would follow Mayor Alioto's example (however unwillingly he may have set it).

It would be interesting to know whether any of the clients of lawyer-Supervisor Gary T. Giacomini have been doing business with Marin County. It would be illuminating to find out whether clients of lawyer-state Sen. Peter H. Behr and lawyer-Assemblyman William T. Bagley have been interested in bills before the legislature.

For that matter, it would be enlightening for the voters to know the clients of all the many attorneys who are running for various public offices in November.

After all, if it's fair for Alioto (and we think it is), it's fair for the rest of the lawyer-politicians.

"I assure you, sir, I couldn't be more sympathetic as to the condition of your portfolio."

Reader Would Like Big Business Fair

You are to be commended for your editorial which revealed to your readers that our Marin County Fair is in the throes of a terminal sickness, that it is withering and dwindling away because of the ineptitudes of those who have been permitted to preside over the potential embalmment of a dying Marin institution.

Your editorial at the same time was a namby-pamby cop-out since it asked questions without offering definitive answers or at least an immediate action program.

If we're to have a fair in our future it is mandatory that those who live in the past and function in the ways of the good old days of the Marin Art and Garden Center Fairs, be jettisoned and the Civic Center Fair be put under the management of the community's business men who will know how to turn the fair into a profitable big business enterprise. Who will spend big money among new media to ballyhoo fair attractions and attract big business exhibitors who will in turn attract big attendance.

At the same time we know that the Marin Art and Garden Center has carried on the Fourth of July fiestas devoted to satisfying those who are pleasured by arts and gardens in an idyllic setting, sans honky-tonk trashiness. Surely the prestigious Art and Garden Center in Ross can be subsidized to present a July spectacular while a big-business oriented Civic Center September Spectacular will give pleasure to those who seek autumnal fun and frolic and most of all, produce profitable returns for the Marin County treasury.

Cut Arms Expenses To Feed The World

A recent editorial shows the cold-blooded inhuman attitude of the leading economists in this world. They say it is not practical for us to share our food with the underprivileged "third world" nations or anybody else for that matter.

I restate my idea: We could create a unilateral agreement with Russia and China to decrease our defense budgets by just one-third and redirect that energy towards stabilizing our defunct economy and feed all the hungry people here or anywhere. Food is cheaper than guns and goes a lot further.

Full bellies are interested in learning and farming. Poverty leads to aggression.

Council Seems Eager To Grant Variances

Last year in Corte Madera, the citizens recalled three members of the city council to get new council members who were elected because they said they would be aware of the current needs and feelings of the voters. We are afraid that they have forgotten these promises to the voters.

At the Sept. 2 meeting, the council had to rule on an application to build a house and swimming pool on a ridge top lot requiring large variances on the front, west side and back plus variances to put a swimming pool and six-foot fence in the front yard. Sixteen neighbors objected vehemently to the variances. In its deliberations, the council did not take into account these objections or the implications on the adjacent neighbors of a large house too close to two property lines. Instead, the council allowed the house, pool and fence . . .

It concerned us that the city council, city staff and deputy city attorney worked long and hard to justify reasons for granting variances to city ordinances. It seems a more proper way to run a government would be to expend that same amount of time and effort to encourage compliance with our laws.

Ford's Pardon Action Saves Trinary System

I agree with the first two paragraphs of Today's editorial (Sept. 9, "Why Not Let System Work for Nixon?") and with your statement "We think the former president should be entitled to trial . . ." Much of the rest of your position reflects a Citizen Nixon psychology without concern for our trinary system of national government.

The American tradition requires trial for misdoings to be before a group of peers. The president is a one-person executive branch. His peers are a nine-person judicial branch and a many-person legislative branch.

If a president is to be tried by a court of law as you would like, then it can only be by the Supreme Court. I do not, however, know of any procedures by which the Supreme Court acts as anything but a review (appellate) body. The other peer has within its constitutional purview the impeachment procedure for trial. But this peer (the Congress as represented by the House of Representatives) has stated, or at least implied by its many voices, its intention to not bring a president to trial.

President Ford has acted exactly right for the best interests of our trinary national government. He has, through use of pardon, precluded lower judiciary elements from bringing to trial a President of the United States, since the right to such trial must remain with only the Congress or with the Supreme Court.

Ford Paving Way For President Rockefeller

Our unelected president, Mr. Ford, has paved the road to the presidency for our unelected vice president, Mr. Rockefeller. This, by giving ex-president Nixon an unpopular pardon.

President Ford's compassion and sympathy got the better part of his good judgement. The road he has paved can be traveled two ways — up to the presidency for Mr. Rockefeller, and down and out for President Ford!

He said there was no "precedent" in history to guide him (it was his duty to set one!). He said there was only one law greater than the constutitional law and that was divine law.

Is an ex-president entitled to amnesty under both laws? And are our boys in Canada entitled to neither?

In an honest war, I would have no sympathy for deserters nor slackers. But in this, an immoral war I would say, the objectors were morally right. . .

I still think we are entitled to an election to decide who our president and vice president shall be.

Beg Your Pardon, But I Didn't Do Anything

"Pardon granted," said the Red Queen to the White Knight. Alice looked puzzled. "But he hasn't admitted anything", she said. "I am not granting him a pardon for what he admits", said the Red Queen, "but rather for his offenses". "I don't believe he has been convicted of any offenses," said Alice. "I realize that," said the Red Queen, "but he could be, and because of my great compassion and in order to save time for all concerned and get on with more important affairs of state, he is hereby pardoned — he can take it or leave it." The White Knight, speaking for the first time, said, "I'll take it." "So will we," several small voices were heard to say, eagerly, hopefully and sounding very distant. "Such impertinence," explained the Red Queen. "Do you think I have nothing better to do than spend all my time being compassionate, especially to the lower classes?" "It's all very strange," sighed Alice softly.

Asian Situation Changed Since Signing Of SEATO Pact

Twenty years ago Secy. of State John Foster Dulles was in Manila signing the documents that set up the southeast Asia Treaty Organization, known ever since as SEATO.

Southeast Asia now is a lot more stable than when the SEATO treaty was patched together.

At that time Communist-led forces in Vietnam had captured a French army and citadel at Dien Bien Phu, the French had capitulated, and their government in Paris had fallen.

Ho Chi Minh was the triumphant leader of the Communist movement in Vietnam. He had the combined support of both the Soviet Union and mainland China. It was the honeymoon phase of the Moscow-Peking alliance. The prospects for any non-Communist cause around the rim of Asia seemed poor indeed.

DULLES HAD HOPED to bring many more countries into the SEATO treaty than were willing to join. India, Burma, Ceylon, and Indonesia all boycotted the conference that set up the treaty.

Prime Minister Nehru of India declared it would do more harm than good. The British and French refused to permit any automatic provisions for action. No agreement could be reached on a continuing military organization. SEATO had no teeth.

Today the picture is different, but not because of SEATO. The SEATO powers never agreed to take joint military action.

The United States went into the Vietnam war citing SEATO obligations, but without any mutual agreement by the other members about such obligations. Australia and New Zealand sent token forces. The British and French ignored the affair.

THE GREAT difference between then and now lies in the change in the Moscow-Peking relationship. Had Moscow and Peking continued to concert their policies, purposes, and powers, one can only speculate on what the world would look like today. It certainly would have been less favorable for the western countries.

But their partnership broke down four years after the signing of the SEATO pact. The decisive year was probably 1958 when the Chinese wanted Russian military help in an attack on Matsu and Quemoy islands.

Today Moscow and Peking both give some aid to North Vietnam, and that aid makes it possible for the armed forces of North Vietnam to maintain their present positions in South Vietnam against persistent efforts by South Vietnamese forces to eject them.

Western intelligence sources say that the amount of Moscow and Peking aid is being rationed below the level that would permit a major offensive aimed at overwhelming all of South Vietnam.

THE ASIAN SCENE today is dominated, not by the American military presence around the rim of Asia, but by the Moscow-Peking rivalry and their conflict of interests. Thanks to that condition, Washington has been able to pull our armed forces back from Southeast Asia, reduce our forces in Korea, and largely fall back to offshore islands. That in turn has been reflected in reduced Chinese encouragement to Hanoi.

Peking, it is to be presumed, would rather have Vietnam remain divided than risk having a united Vietnam come under dominant Russian influence.

True, Vietnam itself is still unsettled. The ultimate survival of a non-Communist regime in South Vietnam remains uncertain. Yet it is a fact that it has survived for a year and a half after the American withdrawal, which is half a year more than most diplomats around the world considered possible at the time of the accords that brought about that withdrawal.

Also, Laos and Cambodia still are in a state of uncertainty.

But there has been no substantial change in the political and ideological frontiers of Asia over the 20 years since Dulles signed the SEATO treaty in Manila Sept. 8, 1954.

Perhaps the lesson of it all is that there is a lot of inherent stability in the world.

WASHINGTON WINDOW

Pardon Gives Nixon Chance To Assume Role Of Martyr

By HELEN THOMAS
UPI White House Reporter

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Another page was added to White House history this week when President Ford pardoned his presidential predecessor — Richard M. Nixon.

But Ford's lawyer said there is nothing to stop Nixon from saying in the future that he was "hounded out of office" and nothing was "proved" against him.

White House counsel Philip Buchen also indicated to reporters that he was not concerned whether historians might find it difficult to judge Nixon's guilt or innocence in the future by Ford's decision to grant a full and absolute pardon only one month after he succeeded Nixon.

"I think the historians will take care of that," Buchen said.

THE QUESTIONS to Buchen were prompted by a letter to the Washington Post a week or so ago from Spiro T. Agnew, the former vice president who pleaded "no contest" to an income tax evasion charge. Agnew denied that he had done anything wrong and said nothing was "proved" against him.

But Ford made no attempt to clear the record of Nixon's innocence or guilt, and according to Buchen he made no attempt to extract any admission from the former president.

In his statement following the pardon, Nixon spoke of "mistakes" and "misjudgments" in handling the Watergate case, but did not admit any criminal offenses.

Nevertheless, Ford's sweeping pardon applies to all crimes Nixon has committed or may have committed in his presidency.

NIXON APPARENTLY will become vocal again in the near future. His daughter Julie Eisenhower said that he is planning to make speeches and will be working on several books. Now that he has access to all of his tapes and documents, under an agreement with the government, Nixon was expected to begin his writings.

Furthermore, his son-in-law David Eisenhower held out the prospect that Nixon could seek public office again.

But the former president may not be able to put Watergate completely behind him, since he must testify at the Watergate cover-up trials, starting Sept. 30, of his former attorney general, John N. Mitchell, and other top aides.

IN GRANTING the pardon, Ford said that he wanted to remove the "sword" hanging over Nixon's head and "threatening his health," but aides could not amplify Ford's statement on the question of Nixon's health.

Nixon's daughter Julie was very upset over newspaper reports that her father was "terribly depressed." She insisted last week that he was "feeling fine" and in "good spirits." But some congressmen had been hearing from Nixon, who has a habit of making late telephone calls, and they considered him to be low in spirit.

FORD IS BEGINNING to exercise more and more a presidential perogative to change his mind. At his first news conference, he said the question of a pardon would be "untimely and unwise" now, but apparently he was guided by his own desire to move during his "honeymoon" with the country. He also undoubtedly had in mind the cover-up trials, which were causing Nixon "deep concern," according to friends.

In another turnabout, Ford had testified at his confirmation hearings for the vice presidency that if he became president the "country wouldn't stand" for him using his pardon authority for his predecessor.

Ford apparently decided the country would stand for it, and he believes that Nixon and his family have "suffered enough."

WHETHER NIXON in the future takes up the theme that he was "hounded out of office" remains to be seen. Ford has made it clear that he has a clear conscience for his actions and believes that his wiping the slate clean for Nixon against any future prosecution was an "act of mercy."

But he left open the question of whether pardons come easier for those who serve in the two highest offices of the land, compared to ordinary citizens.

SACRAMENTO SCENE:

Even Nonsensical Measures Survive Into Final Crush

By SHEILA MARSEE
Copley News Service

SACRAMENTO — Optimism at the opening of the first two-year legislative session was overshadowed in the final hours of that session when lawmakers found themselves faced with a familiar — bulging — calendar.

When two-year sessions were approved by the voters, the major advantage was supposed to be the elimination of the last-minute crush of legislation which often was inadequately reviewed in committee and hurriedly passed on the floor.

MANY OF THESE down-to-the-wire measures were controversial bills which have caused bitter committee feuds and have been amended and reamended until the final version may look nothing like the original version.

But several of the 600 bills on the Senate file during that last week were somewhat less than earth-shaking. Among them were:

—A bill which would change the name of the temple orange to the "royal mandarin."

—A resolution which would request two state agencies to study the feasibility of issuing agricultural "burn statements" at 6 a.m. every day instead of at 8 a.m.

—A measure which would allow the placement of vending machines in safety roadside rest areas.

—A bill which "authorizes" instead of "requires" a $10 fee for the performance of a marriage ceremony.

ANOTHER BILL on the Senate file, authored by former Assemblyman John Burton, who now represents Marin and part of San Francisco in Congress, would forbid restaurants, movie theaters and other places of public accommodation to "refuse admission or service to any person solely because of the style of the person's hair."

That measure was in the legislative process for more than a year, ever since then-Assemblyman Burton was refused admittance to a posh San Francisco restaurant because his hair covered the top of his collar.

During one of the final 10-hour sessions, Sen. John Nejedly, R-Walnut Creek, rose to present a bill which would remove crows, magpies and various kinds of jays from a list of nongame birds which can be "taken or possessed."

The same day Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, offered a bill which would amend 23 sections of the Education, Fish and Game, Food and Agricultural, Public Utilities, Government, Vehicle, Insurance, Labor and Unemployment Insurance Codes to change all references of workmen's compensation to "workers' compensation."

Another bill listed on the file, which had been belabored for four months, was a one-page measure citing as "prima facie evidence of intention to use or engage a cock in an exhibition of fighting" the fact that a mature cock's comb has been clipped to a length of three-quarters of an inch or less.

ART BUCHWALD

It Was Beautiful Honeymoon —But It Ended So Soon

Dear Gerry,

By the time you find this note I will be gone. I don't know how to tell you this, but the honeymoon is over. I guess I should have known it wouldn't last forever, but I didn't think it would end so soon.

How could you do it, Gerry? I believed everything you told me. We were so happy together, and I was so proud when people would point us out and giggle, "They're on their honeymoon."

What a glorious month we had! As far as I was concerned, you could do no wrong. I hung onto every word you said. After my bitter breakup with "you-know-who," I thought you were different. He lied to me and cheated on me and treated me like a fool.

I SAID I WOULD never fall in love again. And then you came along with your honest face and strong jaw and sincere smile and damned if my heart didn't go flip-flop.

I said to myself you were special. You knew right from wrong, and you would never be swayed by a lot of rhetoric and double talk. Gerry, you promised me you wouldn't do anything until justice took its course. You told me under the stars as we held hands that the long nightmare was over and we would love each other forever and ever.

Oh, Gerry, what made you change your mind? What happened to all those dreams you had for us?

I know you tried to explain it to me. You said you had to forgive "you-know-who" as an act of compassion because he had suffered enough. But he hasn't suffered half as much as we have, Gerry. We'll never know all the things he did to us. Even now he refuses to admit that he did anything wrong. He keeps talking about mistakes in judgment. They weren't mistakes in judgment, and you know it. They were criminal acts and you had no right to forgive him before we knew what they were.

I'M SORRY I sound bitter, Gerry. I don't want to. I guess anyone who's been on a honeymoon and then discovers his mate is not a knight in shining armor would feel the same way.

Sunday, after you told me what you were going to do, I decided to go see Evel Knievel jump over the Snake River in his steam rocket. I thought this would make me forget. But it did just the opposite. As I stared at the red, white and blue Sky Cycle, I thought of us going off into space together.

I could see us flying across chasms and mountains sharing the danger and thrills that had been so much a part of our honeymoon.

But then as the rocket filled with hot air and the steam built up and the vehicle started lifting off the ramp, something happened. Before it got off, a parachute opened and, instead of streaking out across the canyon, the rocket nose-dived and floated head first, crash-landing on the rocky bank of the Snake River.

AT THAT MOMENT, Gerry, I broke into tears. I wasn't crying for Evel — I was crying for us. The rocket more than anything symbolized our honeymoon. It looked so beautiful on the pad with all that steam coming out of its nozzles, its nose pointed toward the sky as if to say, "Here I come, world, ready or not."

P.S. Don't try to find me.

ON CABLE CARS

Amateur Sleuth Likes To Capture Pickpockets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Pickpockets beware!

An amateur sleuth named Carl Payne is out to protect the wallets and purses of citizens and tourists who ride the cable cars up and down the bumpy hills of San Francisco.

A 32-year-old bus driver and cable car "grip man" for the Municipal Railway, Payne saw a man raiding a woman's purse on his cable car one day last summer. When confronted, the thief spit at him and fled. Payne ran him down.

That incident meant bad news for everyone practicing the wallet-snatching trade along the cable lines and bus routes.

On his own time Payne carries around a set of handcuffs and looks out for the furtive-or sometimes bold — suspect. When he spots the crime, he moves.

"I usually put the cuffs on first thing," said Payne. "This lets them know I'm serious and prevents any rough stuff."

One of the pickpockets he caught was an international operator, a professional who traveled throughout the United States and in other countries, making a living by lifting wallets.

"I was in a phone booth and saw this guy pick this other guy's pocket and slip the wallet under a raincoat and a newspaper draped over his arm.

"I slipped up beside him and put on the cuffs bringing him to the phone booth. When the police went to his hotel room they found close to $8,000."

"Junies you can spot easily because they're so clumsy. You know, shaking because they need stuff bad," he said.

"The real professionals are hard to find. You have to be very sharp. Whenever you see a guy with a newspaper pass up two loading cable cars to select a certain one, then there's a good chance that he's looking to do something."

Payne has taken a police training course to help him at his thief-catching hobby. He says he likes catching pickpockets so much that he'll try to become a policeman and go professional.

Problem Solved For A Homeowner

DES MOINES, Iowa (UPI) — Living near the 14th hole of the Waveland Park Golf Course meant a lot of free golf balls for Dave Proctor. It also meant a lot of broken windows and the chance of getting smacked on the head by an errant ball.

To eliminate the hazard, the Des Moines Park Board has voted to construct a huge net in back of Proctor's house.

A Victory For Alioto Over Port

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — City Atty. Thomas O'Connor says he can find no conflict of interest for Mayor Joseph Alioto in his family's purchase of Pacific Far East Line, the Port of San Francisco's largest customer.

O'Connor issued a "tentative opinion" yesterday following a 45-minute meeting with the mayor, who explained details of the transaction. Nevertheless, O'Connor said he will study the matter further.

The city attorney decided to investigate after Alioto said he and two relatives had signed credit documents totaling $2.3 million to back the purchase.

"I think it very clear that the signing of a guarantee out of parental sentiments does not constitute an interest in the stock of PFEL," Alioto told reporters later. His son, John, became president of the cargo fleet in the acquisition.

Requirement Delayed For Smog Devices

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The California Air Resources Board yesterday unanimously postponed installation of nitrogen retrofit smog devices for most 1966-70 cars.

The action was taken after a last-minute legislative act postponed such installation after Jan. 1, 1975. However, owners of cars with license plates ending in 1, 2, 3, or 4 would have been required to install the $35 devices before the end of the year.

The new legislation does not apply in the six counties of the South Coast Basin, nor does it excempt car owners from installing the devices on older cars upon change of ownership.

The board heard staff recommendations for suspension of the program for an estimated 600,000 cars and then heard objections from seven representatives of manufacturers opposing the move.

The smog board followed manufacturers' recommendations to remove language from its resolution which might have been interpreted as permitting removal or disconnection of devices already installed. Such action is still unlawful, the board pointed out.

The last-minute legislation suspended the program effective Jan. 1 except in the six South Coast Basin counties, but sponsors were unable to get enough votes to make it effective immediately.

Until yesterday's action, owners of cars with licenses ending in 1 would have had a deadline of Sept. 30 to install the retrofit devices to control emission of oxides of nitrogen. Licenses ending in 2 would have had an Oct. 31 deadline, 3 a Nov. 30 deadline and persons whose car licenses ended in 4 would have had to install the devices by Dec. 31 — one day before they were no longer required.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE BLACK

Shirley Black Testifies On Ghana

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former child movie star Shirley Temple Black said yesterday she wanted to be U.S. Ambassador to Ghana because of a personal interest in developing countries.

Mrs. Black, who was a U.S. Representative to the 24th General Assembly of the United Nations in 1969, also said she was particularly concerned about the drought in Southwest Arica which marginally affects Ghana.

She told the Senate Foreign Relations Committee that "When I went to the United Nations, I made a personal promise to myself to learn as much as possible about the third world nations."

"I have friends not only in Ghana, but also in Togo, Upper Volta, Mali, Chad. I'm sorry if I have forgotten any," she said.

"One major problem is the drought that is going on in the Sahara," Mrs. Black said. "It has been going on for six years. They had rains there recently, but it was almost too much rain. It resulted in flooded roads."

"We have to hope that the phenomena of nature and natural disasters will be more kind to Africa," Mrs. Black said.

Mrs. Black, who captured the heart of depression-torn America when she starred as Shirley Temple in more than 40 movies and later in 50 hour-long television shows, said she would be helped by a staff of 33 foreign service officers in Ghana.

Quizzed by Committee members who asked her bluntly, "Do you know anything about Ghana?", Mrs. Black recited a long list of facts about the country.

Mrs. Black will be accompanied to Ghana by her husband, Charles A. Black, and her three children.

ALMANAC

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Today is Thursday, Sept. 12, the 255th day of 1974 with 110 to follow.

The moon is between its last quarter and new phase. The morning stars are Venus and Saturn. The evening stars are Mercury, Mars and Saturn.

French entertainer Maurice Chevalier was born Sept. 12, 1888.

On this day in history:

In 1922, the Protestant Episcopal House of Bishops voted 36 to 27 to take the word "obey" out of the marriage ceremony.

HOW TO PLAY

WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Trying For An Extra Trick May Cost You The Contract

When both sides are vulnerable, you win about 600 points by making game and rubber. It costs 100 points if you go down one. The difference between the two results is about 700 points. It doesn't pay to lose these 700 points just to have a chance for a 30-point extra trick.

South dealer
Both sides vulnerable

	NORTH
	♠ 9 8 3 2 ♡ K 6 3 ◇ 10 6 ♣ A 8 7 3
WEST		EAST
♠ A K Q J 7 ♡ Q 9 8 ◇ A 7 ♣ 9 4 2		♠ 10 5 4 ♡ 10 4 ◇ 8 4 3 2 ♣ J 10 6 5
	SOUTH
	♠ 6 ♡ A J 7 5 2 ◇ K Q J 9 5 ♣ K Q

South	West	North	East
1 ♡	1 ♠	Pass	Pass
2 ◇	Pass	3 ♡	Pass
4 ♡	All Pass

Opening lead — ♠ K

West led the king of spades and continued with the jack of spades, forcing South to ruff. South immediately knocked out the ace of diamonds and was obliged to ruff another spade.

By this time South was reduced to three trumps. He had lost only two tricks and could win the rest if he could draw trumps without loss. He therefore led a trump to dummy's king and returned a trump, finessing with the jack from his hand.

This was a fatal error. West won with the queen of hearts and led another spade, forcing South to ruff with the ace of trumps. This established West's nine of hearts as the setting trick.

The best plan for South is to take two top trumps. This would leave West with his queen of trumps. South would then run his good diamonds, allowing West to ruff whenever he pleased. West would get his one trump trick, but declarer would then have the rest.

This line of play assures the contract whenever the trumps break 3-2. Finessing with the jack of hearts would give South 30 extra points if the finesse succeeded, but the loss of the finesse cost declarer 720 points.

DAILY QUESTION

♠ - 9 8 3 2 ♦ - 10
♥ - K 6 3 2 ♣ - A 8 7 3.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two hearts. You can well afford the raise with an ace and a king, especially with four trumps and a singleton in a side suit.

Education Talk

Ann Dassow, a Sunnyvale teacher, will discuss "the problems of our educational system . . . how can we resolve them," at a public meeting of the Novato Republican Women's Club, Federated, at noon Tuesday at Nave's Nero Restaurant, Ignacio.

Theft Suspect Is Only 3 Years Old

Officers said the youngster was caught inside a closed service station, handing bottles of soft drinks to his 16-year-old brother.

Both were referred to county juvenile authorities.

Another Crunch — Insurance

MIAMI (UPI) — There's the meat shortage, the paper shortage and the gasoline shortage. Now get ready for the next one —the insurance shortage.

That was the warning yesterday from B.P. Russell, board chairman a New York insurance holding company, to the National Association of Insurance Agents convention here.

"This may sound a little odd, a little unusual," Russell conceded, "But these are odd and unusual times."

He said the nation's insurance firms may be heading for the worst "capacity crunch" ever because the value of their invested reserves is declining.

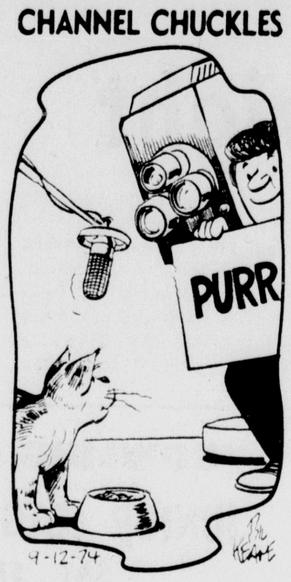

"We have had a slow market crash and the bond market is in shambles too. Now, just superimpose on top of this weakened condition, the accelerated increas in loss ratios.

"In just a few short months the industry has gone from underwriting profits to big underwriting losses," Russell said.

Meyer Receptions

Receptions for Peter C. Meyer of San Rafael, candidate for Marin County clerk, will be held: 6 p.m. tomorrow at the San Rafael home of Dr. James Good, 310 Highland Avenue; 8 p.m. Monday at the Terra Linda home of Joseph F. Turina, 4 Dias Way, and 8 p.m. Sept. 19 at the Fairfax home of Dr. Jared B. Sharon, 135 Gregory Drive.

Health Bill Chance This Year Told

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Chances are good a national health insurance bill will clear Congress this year, but it will require a lame duck session, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield said yesterday.

Mansfield told reporters that an agreement "of sorts" had been worked out between House and Senate committee leaders on the health measure. He also said the leaders hope to complete action on a tax bill.

Mansfield spoke with reporters after a joint meeting of House and Senate Democratic leaders, Senate Finance Chairman Russell Long, D-La. and Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark., chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee.

"The joint leadership intends to ask the Congress to return after the election so that it will be on hand to work with the administration in bringing about an improvement in the economic situation and, particularly, to try to curb the inflation," the leaders said in a joint statement.

But Mansfield said the Congress would like more cooperation from the administration "in the field of definitive legislative proposals" to deal with the economy.

Paper Sleeping Bags Are Hit

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Napa legislator says the state Division of Forestry is supplying throwaway paper sleeping bags to fire fighters "that are treated with a highly flammable waterproofing substance."

Democratic Assemblyman John F. Dunlap said in a statement it would cost the taxpayers very little more to buy bags that are waterproofed with a flame-resistant substance.

TELEVISION REVIEW

Lucille Ball: No Longer Zany 'Lucy'

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Lucille Ball was just another tenant now at the studio she once owned and she was working without her alter-ego, the wacky redhead who made her a star — Lucy.

She was back on Stage 19 where she starred in the "Lucy" shows for more years than she cares to count. Only it's Paramount Studios now, formerly Desilu. And it's Lucille Ball, actress, when the name on the door once read Lucille Ball, President.

"When I came back here some people thought I was going to buy the studio again," Lucille said. "No way. But it was fun being the owner for 12 years."

She was sitting in her yellow and green portable dressing room which she has rolled along to Universal Studios — where the "Lucy" show was filmed for three years — and to Warner Bros. for two years where she starred in the ill-fated movie version of "Mame."

It's really a short movie co-starring Art Carney, Nanette Fabray and Peter Marshall. Lucille will be playing a matron fed up with her marriage. There won't be a trace of zany Lucy in her performance.

For the past six months Lucille hasn't faced a camera, what with the completion of "Mame" and demise of her weekly show. Inactivity has given her the jumps and fidgets.

"After three weeks I got edgy," she said. "This is the first real vacation I've taken in 20 years and I didn't like it. How can you take a vacation from a vacation? I needed to get back to work.

"I learned to play backgammon and became a fiend at it. I read a million books. Then I moved away from Universal, cut back my production staff and disposed of 20 years of wardrobe.

"Cutting off some people who had worked with me for 20 years was agony. Then I went on a house-cleaning and gardening binge. I cleaned every nook and cranny and pruned every shrub on the property.

"For six weeks I almost killed myself physically. Thank God this good script came along. I've never wanted to work so badly in my life.

"There will be no such thing as retirement for me. I couldn't stand it. I have to keep busy no matter what, even if it meant opening an employment office.

"This is the first non-Lucy show I've done on television since Bob Hope and I did 'His and Hers' more than a dozen years ago.

"There wasn't a trace of Lucy in 'Mame' and there won't be a sign of her in this special. The real trauma in getting back to work is not having Gale Gordon (her cranky co-star) with me. This is the first season in years without him and I really feel the loss."

With or without Lucy, Gale Gordon or anyone else, Lucille Ball is indestructible, as home viewers will see for themselves Nov. 19. when her special is aired.

General Hospital Star In Hospital

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Actress Emily McLaughlin, who plays nurse Jessie Brewer on the daytime television soap opera "General Hospital," has been hospitalized herself after suffering an ulcer attack on the set.

Miss McLaughlin, who has co-starred on the show for 11 years, collapsed on the set Monday and was admitted to Century City Hospital in West Los Angeles.

She was reported in good condition Wednesday, and was expected to be released within the next week.

Snow Blankets, Shocks Colorado

DENVER (UPI) — Colorado residents woke up today to find a surprise blanket of snow covering their ripening vegetable gardens and barbeques — and with more snow forecast for the rest of the day.

The Colorado State patrol said roads will be slick and driving dangerous as snowtireless motorists battle snow depths of up to 3 inches mixed with freezing rain in some portions of the state.

Freezing temperatures are forecast by the weather service for the northern and eastern portions of the states into Wyoming and Nebraska where continued heavy snowfall is also expected throughout the day.

Californians Drink Lots Of Liquor

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Californians, led by beer guzzlers, drank a record 542.7 million gallons of hard liquor, wine and beer during the past year, the state reported yesterday.

Those same drinkers poured $119.2 million in tax revenue into state coffers, the Board of Equalization said.

Broken down, figures showed that per capita consumption of beer during the 12 months ending June 30 totaled 20.7 gallons, compared with 19.6 gallons during the previous 12 months.

The board said wine consumption also set a new record but suffered a "drastic turn around" because it failed to keep pace with expectations.

Wine consumption totaled 73.6 million gallons, an increase of only one-tenth of 1 per cent, the smallest increase since 1955-56. Wine consumption per capita fell from 3.57 to 3.53 gallons, the board said.

The agency cited as a "possible contributing factor" to the huge beer sales the fact that the price had not increased as significantly as had wine, a competing beverage. Beer drinkers consumed 418.8 million gallons and paid $16.7 million in taxes.

Hard liquor consumption totaled 50 million gallons and produced $100.4 million in tax revenue, the highest ever on distilled spirits.

Crop Outlook Still Is Not Bright

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Agriculture Department's September crop report showed drought-breaking rains last month did not brighten the disappointing national crop outlook enough to shake prospects for continued hikes in retail food prices and a tightening supply squeeze for many major crops, a government expert said today.

The report estimated the 1974 corn crop — a key to future supplies of meat, milk and poultry — at 4.995 billion bushels on the basis of Sept. 1 conditions. This was 29 million bushels above the August estimate but 11 per cent below last year's record crop. The soybean harvest, which many observers thought would be up at least moderately because of August rains and a lush appearance in many areas, was estimated at 1.316 billion bushels, up only 2 million bushels from the August forecast and 16 per cent below last year.

A 10 per cent cut in spring wheat prospects brought the overall wheat forecast down 3 per cent to 1.792 billion bushels, still a record and 5 per cent above last year, but disappointing to government planners in view of the tight world food situation and reports of smaller-than-expected production in Canada.

Officials also warned, meanwhile, that the final outcome of this year's harvest may still depend in some areas on how soon the first killing frosts arrive. Some of the corn and soybean crops were planted later than usual because of spring rains and may be "vulnerable" to damage from early frost, experts said.

Don Paarlberg, chief Agriculture Department economist, said the report included some bright spots including a further increase in record rice prospects and a sharp improvement in drought-stricken pastures. The pasture gain will slow but not eliminate a heavy flow of grass-fed beef to slaughter this fall, he said.

But overall, Paarlberg said, there wasn't enough improvement in the crop report to change Agriculture's late-August assessment of the food outlook for the coming year. That size-up said average retail food prices in 1974 will be up 15 per cent from 1973 instead of the pre-drought forecast of a 12 per cent gain.

The August forecast also predicted sharp declines in U.S. exports of major crops and a major cutback in domestic use of livestock feed grains. Officials said consumers would find the smaller supplies and higher prices of crops like corn and soybeans translated into reduced supplies of pork and poultry. Beef production, they added, will rise as farmers shift from grain feeding to more production of grass-fed beef.

In a step which may help spur that trend, the Agriculture Department this week announced a proposal to revise beef grading standards. The new standards would give top-line grade names like "choice" to leaner beef which requires less grain feeding but currently gets lower grade labels.

Crop report experts warned that some of the estimates announced yesterday on the basis of Sept. 1 conditions may have to be trimmed later. They said the report didn't take account of any damage done by frosts after Sept. 1 or by the hurricane which smashed a still-uncertain part of the Louisiana sugar crop.

The report said that despite the welcome, drought-breaking rains of August, "crop conditions were slow in recovering from the hot, dry weather in July and conditions in many areas were still only fair...corn and soybean development was much behind normal on September 1.

Rough Road Ahead For 49ers In '74

I don't want to be the bearer of bad news but my topic today is the 1974 chances of the San Francisco 49ers.

Like a 49er Faithful, I would like to be able to say the 49ers have a good chance to win the west division in the National Football Conference, but truth wins out over loyalty.

A good indication of what the experts think about the 49ers' chances glares out at you when you look at the odds posted for this weekend's opening games in the National Football League. New Orleans, the team always picked for the division cellar, is a four-point favorite to whip the Niners. Gads!

BEFORE YOU SHOUT about the home field advantage taken into account by the bookies, remember what Jimmy the Greek, the best in his business, said about home fields. It's worth no more than three points, Jimmy said one day.

According to his rules, the 49ers are still one point inferior to the Saints. Atlanta has a stronger ball club than the Saints and the Los Angeles Rams are stronger still, picked by many as the team most likely to represent the NFC in the Super Bowl. Where does that leave the 49ers? Not in very good shape, my friends. It's going to be quite a struggle for the Niners in the western division.

Main reason for all the pessimism is the lack of offense shown by the 49ers in an exhibition season that was consistently bad. Not one victory blemished an imperfect record. Losing six years, exhibition or not, does little to help a player gain confidence.

THE 49ERS ARE GOING through a terrific changeover, from a purely passing team to one that can gain fame and fortune from the run. There is no longer a John Brodie to pass the ball. Instead the 49ers will have to develop a ground game. This will have to be built around untried rookies, since veterans Ken Willard and Vic Washington have been traded and Doug Cunningham is on the injured list. Regardless of what you think about those three, they did have experience, something the backfield is now very short on. Of the top five running backs on the team's depth chart, the lone veteran is fullback Larry Schreiber.

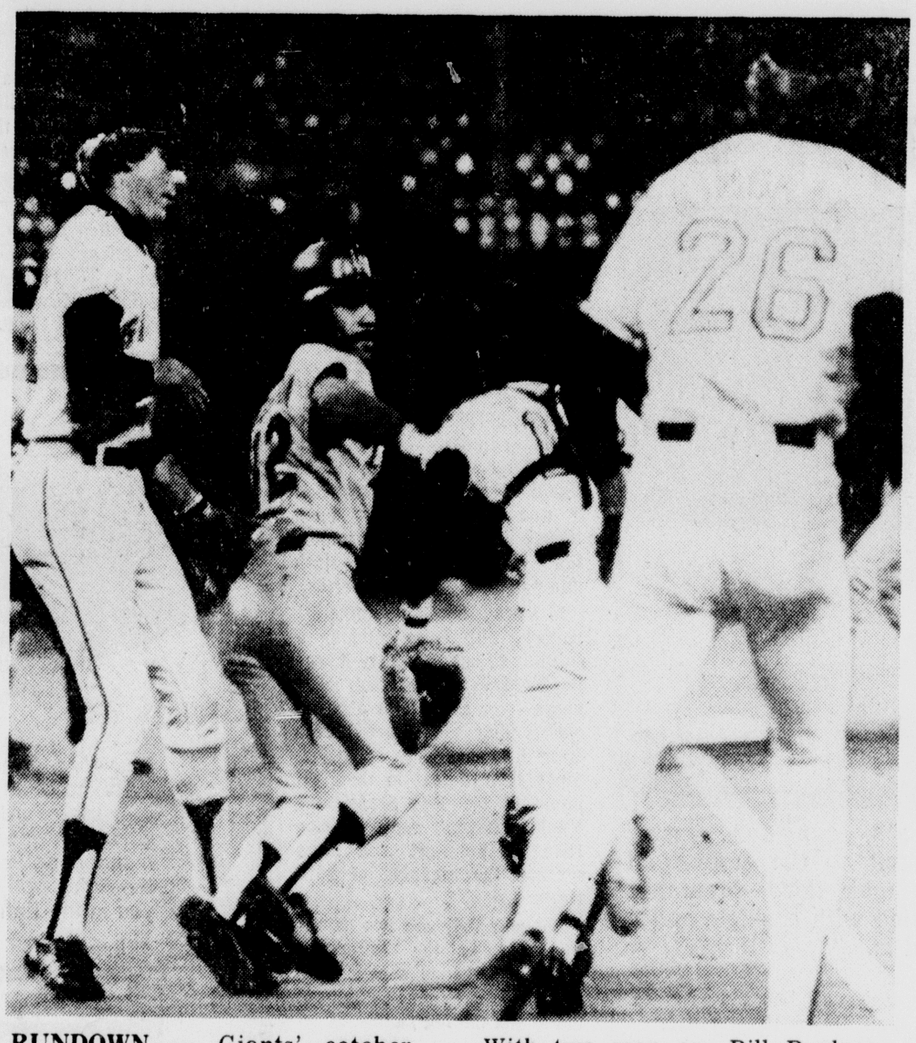

Things are not any brighter at the quarterback position. Steve Spurrier was not showing any signs of super stardom during the exhibition season but he had more experience than the other QB candidates and was being groomed as the starter. When he was sent to the hospital with a shoulder separation in last Sunday's game against the Rams, it elevated untested Joe Reed to the No. 1 job. That entire backfield combination shows promise, but has a lot of learning to do.

THE OFFENSIVE LINE is still another problem area for head coach Dick Nolan. Under Brodie's tenure, the linemen prided themselves on pass blocking. They were nicknamed The Protectors. If there was some sloppy blocking for Willard or Vic Washington, so what? They would give Brodie enough time and he would bail them out with a pass to one of their talented wide receivers.

But things are different now. They have to open holes with aggressive blocks and cut down players downfield. More learning must take place, even with veteran linemen, because of new techniques.

The only bright spot for the 49ers is the way the defense has been playing. But man cannot live on defense alone.

I don't want to be the first to come out with that familiar chant, "Wait till next year," because the season hasn't even started. But don't get your 1974 hopes too high, you 49er Faithful. The team has a lot of learning to do.

RUNDOWN — Giants' catcher Dave Rader chased Los Angeles Dodgers' runner Von Joshua back toward third base before tagging him out during the first inning last night at Candlestick Park. With two men on, Bill Buckner grounded to San Francisco first baseman Kingman (26) who threw home to prevent Joshua from scoring. Third baseman Ed Goodson (left) stepped out of the way. Sarazen Becomes Lonely On Steps

Waiting Induction Into Hall

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Gene Sarazen, at 72 the oldest of the living inductees to the new World Golf Hall of Fame, stood on the steps of the white, $2.5 million complex in the Carolina sandhill country.

Jack Nicklaus had just kidded Arnold Palmer during the induction ceremonies yesterday, and Sam Snead had kidded Ben Hogan.

"As I stand here and look about me," said Sarazen, the little squire from upstate New York who won the first of his major titles more than a half-century ago, "I become very lonely.

"They've all gone to another, higher Hall of Fame and I have a feeling they're up there now, waiting for me on the first tee to make up the foursome.

"But I keep telling them, 'you'd better play away fellows. I'll catch you on the back nine.'"

Those five Sarazen, Snead, Hogan, Nicklaus and Palmer — were among the 13 men and women formally installed as the charter members of the new Hall of Fame.

The others, selected by the Golf Writers Association of America, are Francis Ouimet, Bobby Jones, Harry Vardon, Walter Hagan, Byron Nelson, Gary Player, and two women pros; Patty Berg and Babe Didrickson Zaharias.

All living inductees — those dead are Jones, Hagan, Zaharias, Ouimet and Vardon — attended the ceremonies at which President Gerald Ford was the principal speaker.

Ford told a black tie dinner last night that golf is a game where honor is more important then rules.

"Without good sportsmanship, golf could not exist. Without trust, another name for good sportsmanship, governments could not exist either," Ford said.

Ford, saying he was on a "mini-vacation," called the opening of the Hall of Fame an "international event" which could lead Americans to take note that "many things we value most have been bequeathed to us by other nations."

He also did a bit of reminiscing himself, recalling the golfing of former President Dwight Eisenhower, whose golf cart will be part of the Hall's collection of golfing mementos.

"He wasn't a professional, but his love for golf was profound, and he did as much as any man in this century to make golf one of the world's No. 1 participant sports," said Ford.

Ford also made several jokes about his golfing ability, claiming that because of his wild swing the players don't shout "fore" as a warning on his home course, but rather shout "Ford."

Earlier in the day Ford played nine holes of golf, playing a few holes with Nicklaus, Palmer, Player, Snead, Berg, Sarazen and Nelson.

The President shot a 48 over what would be a par 35 course and said his game was "passable. I've got to work on it."

The Hall of Fame was build by Diamondhead Inc., owners of the huge Pinehurst resort complex. Half-encircled by a pool and spurting fountains, the hall will have sections on golfing history and historic events of the game.

GOLF POINTERS — Clad in his ever-present knickers, golfing great Gene Sarazen gave some pointers to President Gerald Ford before they teed off yesterday at Pinehurst, N.C. Sarazen was inducted into the world golf Hall of Fame in ceremonies Ford officiated. (UPI Telephoto)

DESPITE BEATING GIANTS

'I'm Not Pitching As Well As I Can'—Messersmith

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — "I'm still not pitching as well as I can, but this was a step in the right direction," said Andy Messersmith after the Los Angeles Dodgers had beaten the San Francisco Giants, 5-4.

The right-hander pitched seven innings of six-hit ball last night to lift his record to 17-6. The performance was a boost to the Dodgers, who now lead the National League West by four games over Cincinnati.

Messersmith topped the NL with a 13-2 record and 2.24 earned run average at the end of July. But since then, his earned run average had soared to 4.97 while his record over the past six weeks was 3-4.

"It's encouraging to see Andy in the groove, he means so much to this club," said Dodgers' manager Walter Alston.

"I've felt a lot sharper," said Messersmith, "but I was getting tired. I just haven't pitched very well since hurting my elbow last month against St. Louis. I hit a triple in that game and then fell on my elbow going into third. In my last few starts, I haven't had anything."

Los Angeles left 14 men stranded during the game, twice left the bases loaded and trailed 2-1 in the second inning. It was Messersmith, batting .274, who helped the Dodgers win.

The pitcher's grounder scored Ron Cey from third with the tying run in the fifth. Then in the seventh, Messersmith led off with a double and scored what proved to be the winning run on Bill Buckner's grounder for a 5-2 lead.

Buckner reached base all five times he was at bat, hitting a pair of doubles and a single, knocking in a pair of runs and scoring once.

Ed Goodson drove in three runs on two singles for San Francisco.

Loser Gary Lavelle, 0-1, entered the game in the first inning after Von Joshua singled sharply off starter John D'Acquisto's right hand. X-rays revealed deep bruises to the pitcher's three fingers, and it was uncertain whether he would make his next scheduled start Sunday.

Vallejo Strike No Threat For Marin

A strike by coaches of the Vallejo School District that threatened to wipe out three pre-season football games with Marin County Athletic League teams has been resolved, according to district deputy superintendent Dr. Phillip Bowman.

However, at least one of the striking coaches thought yesterday that the strike was not yet settled.

Both Bowman and Vallejo High School assistant varsity football coach Mike Sweatfield agreed, however, that Vallejo will meet its schedule obligations and play San Rafael tomorrow night at San Rafael,

Longest Night In Major Leagues

Finally — 25-Inning Tilt Ends

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

At 13 minutes and 40 seconds past 3 a.m. EDT this morning, after 25 innings of baseball that lasted seven hours and four minutes, John Milner swung and missed.

The longest night game and the second longest game in the history of baseball was in the record books.

The St. Louis Cardinals and the New York Mets — who have something of a fetish for these marathon affairs — played for 25 innings before Bake McBride's daring run gave the Cards a dramatic 4-3 triumph.

Only the famous 26-inning 1-1 tie between Brooklyn and Boston in 1920 lasted longer in innings. The 7:04 clocking made it the second longest in time. The Mets lost to the Giants in 7 hours and 23 minutes in 1964 in a 23-inning battle.

The previous longest night game was a 24-inning marathon when the Mets lost to Houston in 1968. So, the Mets have played three of the seven longest games in history — 23, 24 and 25 innings — and have lost all three.

The game was televised in New York and only a few insomniacs and a hardy band of the 13,460 fans who were on hand at Shea Stadium when it started were still watching when it ended.

The man who was responsible for keeping it going was Ken Reitz, who hit a two-run homer off Jerry Koosman with two out in the ninth inning to tie the game.

The pitchers then took over and matched 15 scoreless innings — Claude Osteen pitched 9 1-3 innings of four-hit ball for St. Louis and Jerry Cram threw eight innings of seven-hit ball for New York.

In the other games, Philadelphia downed Pittsburgh 8-5, Montreal swept Chicago 6-1 and 13-4, Los Angeles topped San Francisco 5-4, San Diego blanked Houston 2-0 and the Cincinnati-Atlanta game was called by rain with the score tied 1-1 after five innings. It will be played as part of a doubleheader today.

Expos 6-13, Cubs 1-4

Mike Jorgensen hit a pair of two-run homers in the opener and drove in two runs in the second game with a double and a bases loaded walk to pace Montreal to the doubleheader sweep over Chicago.

Phils 8, Pirates 5

Padres 2, Astros 0

Reds 1, Braves 1

The Reds scored in the third when Phil Niekro walked Cesar Geronimo and Johnny Bench doubled. The Braves tied it in the top of the fifth on Leo Foster's single, a sacrifice and a double by Marty Perez.

HAVE A SEAT — Exasperated Pittsburgh Pirates pitcher Dock Ellis last night sat on the ground in the sixth inning at Philadelphia after throwing wildly on Willie Montanez's grounder. Larry Bowa scored on the error, and Montanez took third. Montanez was credited with a single and a run batted in. (UPI Telephoto)

Softball Win For Santa Rosa

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — Santa Rosa edged Aurora, Ill., 2-1, last night in a game between two undefeated teams at the American Softball Association's World Fast Pitch Tournament.

In other games:

Reading, Pa., eliminated Mankato, Minn., 2-0.

Reading, Pa., eliminated Carson, Calif., 3-0.

COACHES

In negotiations Tuesday night with the aid of a mediator from the state conciliation service, coaches from Vallejo and Hogan high schools agreed, Bowman said, to an offer from the district that will raise their salaries to the median range of 10 other Bay Area unified districts, including Novato.

"The fact is they (the coaches) agreed finally to accept the offer we made a couple of weeks ago," said Bowman. "The agreement will be ratified next Tuesday at the regular meeting of the district governing board."

But Sweatfield said yesterday that the strike wasn't over. "We're still negotiating, but it will not affect the athletic program as it stands now," he said.

Sweatfield agreed that the district had brought its salary offer up to comparability with other districts, but that the 25-member Vallejo Coaches Association was pressing for more concessions.

"Basically, the board has made some commitments, but the coaches feel further commitments are needed," Sweatfield said.

Munson, Gura Act Confident

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

Batterymates Larry Gura and Thurman Munson acted like the New York Yankees had it won all the way — even though it was their most important victory since the sixth game of the 1964 World Series.

In a way it was a routine 5-1 victory, with Gura pitching a five-hitter, but in reality it was the Yankees' biggest win in 10 years — or since their 41-year-old dynasty that started with Babe Ruth suddenly collapsed. Since their defeat in the final game of the 1964 Series, the Yankees haven't won a division title or pennant and have learned the meaning of hard times.

But now they are two games in front in the American League East and showing the ability of the Yankee greats of old to win the big games.

Gura's victory last night was a truly big one because the Yankees had lost to the Baltimore Orioles 3-2 in 17 innings in the opener and would have shared first place if they lost the nightcap. Instead they came through with the victory and restored their lead to two games.

"What's good about this team is that it can lose a game like we did tonight but it's not the end of the year," said Gura.

Cleveland defeated Boston 3-1, Texas beat Chicago 6-2, Minnesota scored a 5-3 10-inning win over Oakland, Milwaukee blanked Detroit 3-0 and California nipped Kansas City 3-2 in 10 innings in other AL games.

Brewers 3 Tigers 0

Angels 3 Royals 2

Indians 3 Red Sox 1

Gaylord Perry pitched a five-hitter to raise his season record to 19-10 and give him a 12-1 lifetime record against the Red Sox. George Hendrick's double gave the Indians a 2-1 lead in the fifth.

Rangers 6 White Sox 2

TREVINO TALKS Ggolf

Take A Side View

The only flat putt I can remember was on a blacktop parking lot at a course in Dallas. That also was the fastest "green" I ever putted on. It sure gave some of us caddies a delicate touch.

A perfectly level putt is a rarity anywhere. So it's surprising that so few golfers take the trouble to look at a putt from the side. They do it the easy way — swuatting behind the ball and looking toward the hole.

Actually, it's easier to see the contour of a green from the side. Take a look as you near the green, or before it's your time to putt. It delays the game when you walk around the compass and your buddies are waiting on you.

Check your surroundings. You see a better profile of a green when you're 20 feet away from it than when you're standing on it. The slopes are defined better.

Memphis Gets Its Revenge In WFL Game

By UNITED PRESS INTERNATIONAL

The Memphis Southmen went out looking for blood and wound up leaving the Birmingham Americans completely drained.

The Southmen, blasted by Birmingham 58-33 earlier this season, vowed revenge and took it last night, crushing the Americans 46-7 and ending their dream of an unbeaten World Football League season.

Ed Marshall caught three touchdown passes, Gary Shirk took another and J. J. Jennings and Willie Spencer each blasted for TDs as Memphis, now 9-2, sent the Americans to their first loss after 10 consecutive victories.

Spencer ran one yard and Jennings blasted eight for TDs and John Huarte threw 20 yards to Shirk and passed to Marshall for the action point and a 23-0 lead. Then Marshall really turned it on.

After Birmingham scored its lone TD on a six-yard pass from Matthew Reed to Dennis Homan, Marshall took a 48-yard TD pass from halfback John Harvey and 12 and six yarders from Huarte before 30,675 in Memphis.

In other WFL action, the Detroit Wheels upset the Florida Blazers 15-14 before 11,511 at Orlando, the New York Stars ripped the Storm 34-15 before 13,339 in Portland, Ore., the Bell blasted the Jacksonville Sharks 41-22 in overtime before 7,230 in Philadelphia, the Hawaiians beat the Texans 24-17 before 9,861 in Houston and the Southern California Sun nipped the Fire 31-28 before 24,827 in Chicago.

Stars 34, Storm 15

Jim Ford, just reactivated this week, scored twice on one-yard plunges to lead New York over Portland and lift the Stars into a tie with Florida for the Eastern Division lead.

Bell 41, Sharks 22

Sun 31, Fire 28

Wheels 15, Blazers 14

Bubba Wyche threw a 50-yard TD pass to Jon Henderson and rookie Billy Sadler ran six yards for another score as the Wheels scored their first victory after 10 straight losses. Wyche's pass to Sadler on the action point following his TD run was decisive since Florida, which earlier got a 16-yard TD pass from Bob Davis to Jim Strong, scored in the last period on a two-yard run by Tommy Reamon.

Hawaiians 24, Texans 17

Edd Hargett, with the National Football League Oilers until three weeks ago, returned to Houston and threw two TD passes to lift the Hawaiians over the Texans. Hargett threw 14 yards to John Kelsey and 17 to John Isenbarger and Derrick Williams had an 83-yard kickoff return for a score.

Roger Stillwell Is Quiet Leader

By NANCY PETERSON

STANFORD — The silent leader of Stanford's 1974 defense is probably better known as half of the Cardinal's Stillwell-Donovan All-American defestive end duo.

Roger Stillwell of Novato is the quiet one. Somewhat shy and reserved, he lets his actions speak for him. He is usually too involved in the game to put his thoughts into words, but in his mind, he has an astute understanding of himself and his role in Stanford football.

This year, the 6-foot-6½, 245 pounder has assumed a personal responsibility as a senior member of the squad.

"What I have to do is uphold the pride and general attitude the defensive line had when I was first recruited by Stanford," Stillwell says, referring to the renowned "Thunderchickens" of Stanford's two-time Rose Bowl champions.

"I want to play like they did. They had that unspoken emotion. You could see the air of confidence they played with."

SIMILARITY FOUND

A communication and political science major, Stillwell finds a similarity between the 1971 Stanford football squad and his 1974 teammates. "We also have unspoken confidence. No one says 'we're going to win the Rose Bowl', but we all know what we can do.

"A lot of the guys don't express themselves outwardly, but there are some on the team who are more emotional and will bring it out in the rest. Emotion," the 22-year-old Stillwell adds, "can be an energy too. You can learn to drive all your energies into one purpose."

A highly disciplined performer, Stillwell relates a military upbringing to his current outlook. His father, Lt. Colonel George Stillwell, will retire in October upon completion of 30 years service in the U.S. Air Force.

DISCIPLINE

"The military life teaches you to be disciplined, but not pressured. If you're a free lance ball player, you'll be a free lance person. But if you're disciplined on the field, that's the way you'll be in life."

Born in California, Stillwell lived in Japan, Alabama, Hawaii and Virginia, and calls Falls Church, Va. his hometown since he played high school ball there. His family is now at Hamilton Air Force Base in Novato.

Concentration is another key to success on the grid iron, Stillwell says. "When you can't focus your concentration, your attention span decreases and you can't stand still. You think about the mud, the heat and the turf. That's where discipline comes in."

Selected All-America following the 1973 season and preseason this year, Stillwell is shooting to improve his play. "There are a lot of things I could work into my game. I've only played the defensive end position for three years."

COLLEGE OF MARIN

Following his high school career at Falls Church as a 6-4, 200-pound tight end, he attended an Air Force prep school in Colorado, where his team was undefeated. He transferred to Stanford in 1971, after one year at College of Marin. Forced by a knee injury to redshirt the 1971 season, Stillwell came into his own in 1972, starting the USC game as a sophomore. He's been a Cardinal regular ever since.

Through two seasons, Stillwell has 480 minutes varsity time, and 128 tackles despite opponents' usual decision to avoid his territory.

Calm and easy-going off the field, Stillwell is quick to say he never feels "mean" until he puts on his pads and faces offensive linemen. "If I'm getting held during a game it'll build up and I'll get mad." Otherwise, foes across the line need only be concerned with his strength, speed, agility, quickness and dedication.

The blond-haired, blue-eyed Stillwell and runningmate Pat Donovan aid each other in coordinating the Stanford defense. "We're always trying to find out about offensive line techniques, and what works better against certain blockers," Stillwell points out. "Also, we help each other read the different offenses."

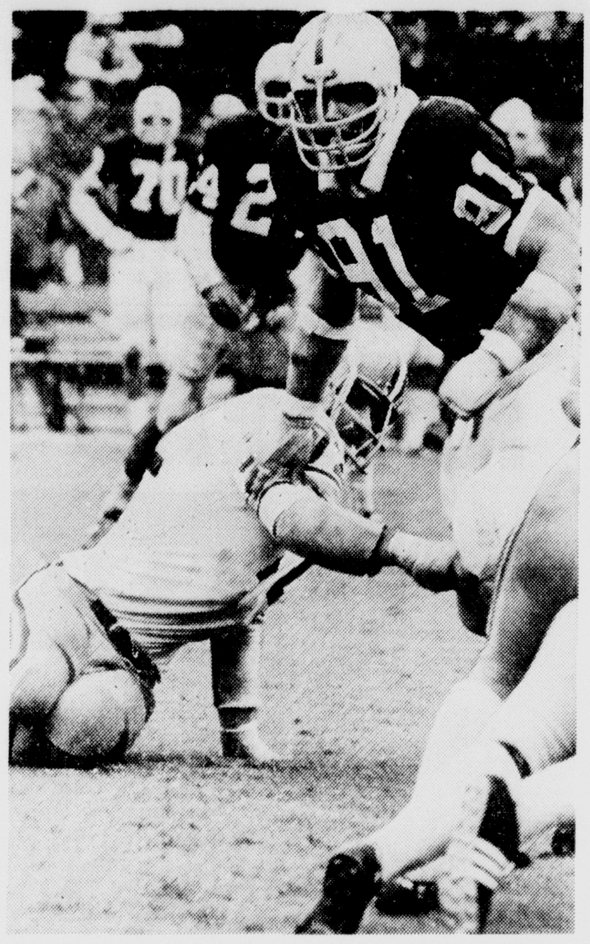

During the Illinois game last year, Stillwell suffered a compression of the left shoulder when he found himself tackling both the Illinois fullback and running back at the same time. For the remainder of the season, he operated in pain at less than full strength, but performed excellently.

Defensive line coach Gunther Cunningham vouches for Stillwell's dedication: "The first day of practice this fall, Roger was running a 103-degree temperature, but didn't tell anyone. He went out to practice on his own, and stayed until he physically couldn't take it any longer."

WORKS HARD

Having worked closely with Stillwell, Cunningham says he is a tremendous leader, not by talk, but by action. "He hustles so much and works so hard — the younger players have great respect for him. Over the summer, he did everything I asked him to and more. On his own volition he lost 20 pounds and now plays at 245."

Although unquestionably at the top of many pro scouts' lists, Stillwell is not preoccupied with a professional football career. In fact, he won't even discuss it. "You've got to be level-headed," Stillwell asserts. "I'm interested in this season."

BIG RUSH — Stanford All-American defensive end Roger Stillwell of Novato blasted through the University of Illinois line in pursuit of the ball carrier last season at Stanford.

Weather A Factor In Cup

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — Weather became the uncertain factor today in the America's Cup races. There was no disagreement on who would win.

If the fog clears and the winds pick up to permit the postponed second race of the best of seven series to get underway in Rhode Island Sound, most of the yachting experts give the nod to the U.S. defender, Courageous, over Australia's challenger' Southern Cross.

The weather forecasters said the fog would clear, that the winds would pump up to 10 to 12 knots. But the Newport area in September is notorious for confusing the weather experts.

The new aluminum-hulled Courageous won the first race Tuesday in this 23rd renewal of a competition that began 123 years ago, defeating the Australians by four minutes, 54 seconds, an amazing margin in this type of racing. The losers may have made a few mistakes in their sail-handling and their tactics but most everyone agreed that the first clash between the two proved that Courageous was the better boat.

With Ted Hood, the 47-yearold Marblehead, Mass., sailmaker at the helm, the Courageous crew was primed and ready yesterday to go out for its second victory. But the fog and light, variable winds forced the New York Yacht Club Racing Committee to call a postponment.

Both Courageous and Southern Cross, also a new aluminum hull, were still at their Newport docks when the postponement was announced. Later in the day, despite the poor visibility, both boats went outside the harbor for a few hours of sail evaluation and practice. Then they came back in and were hauled to have their bottoms checked.

The Australian challengers did not seem dismayed by their drubling in the first race and admitted that skipper Jim Hardy, the 41-year-old from Sydney and his crew made a few flubs. But it didn't dim their confidence and they laughed off the experts' predictions.

MCAL Provides Test For Marin Catholic

(Last in a series of profiles on 1974 Marin County high school football teams.)

Marin Catholic coach Bruno Banducci thinks this may be the year his Wildcats prove themselves able to reenter the Marin County Athletic League.

With five of the seven MCAL schools on the football schedule, Marin Catholic will get ample opportunity to show how far they've come since dropping out of the league almost a decade ago.

"It's a question of how soon we start holding our own against MCAL teams," says Banducci. "If we do well this year, we might get back in."

From last year's team, which went 4-5 overall, Banducci welcomes back the entire backfield and almost none of the line. But a banner turnout will help refreshen the ranks.

Quarterback Bob Yetter and running backs Steve Lombardi, Jeff Reusche and Jeff Knotts comprise the returning backfield; split end Rich Speidel and guard Pierre Rouzier are the returning linemen.

Banducci expects to get help on the line from 210-pound tackle Pat Sangiacomo, a junior transfer from St. Ignatius in San Francisco. "He's one of the few men we'll have going both ways," he says.

In addition he has three outstanding sophomores — linebacker Bill Reilly and brothers (though not twins) Ed and Richard Ugarte, who play running back and center respectively.

Easter Seal Campaign To Be Headed By Staubach

Combined AP & UPI

CHICAGO — Quarterback Roger Staubach of the National Football League Dallas Cowboys has been named national chairman for the 1975 Easter Seal Campaign, which will open Feb. 24 and continue through Easter Sunday, March 30.

As sports chairman, he will enlist the support of fellow athletes, sports writers and broadcasters in the Easter Seal Society's appeal for funds to enable the Society's affiliates nationwide to give rehabilitation services to nearly 400,000 handicapped children and adults.

Staubach said of his role as national Easter Seal sports chairman, "It's gratifying to be working with a team of thousands of dedicated volunteers whose goal is to build, and rebuild, bodies, muscles and futures."

Haugen, now 86, and a pioneer member of the Lake Tahoe Ski Club, thus retroactively becomes the first American to win an Olympic ski medal. Arne Mollen, president of the Norwegian Olympic Committee, will present the bronze award today at Holmenkolle Museum near Oslo, Norway.

Earlier this year, the Norwegian Olympic Committee discovered an error in the official jumping results of the 1924 Olympics at Chamonix, France, had placed Haugen fourth instead of third, his rightful position. He originally was placed behind Thorlief Haug of Norway in the special jump of the first winter Olympics.

'We're Not Worried About Texas'—A's Skipper Dark

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — "We're not worried about Texas," said Oakland A's manager Alvin Dark, "we're just worried about our next game."

The Texas Rangers are within 5½ games of the division-leading A's in the American League West, but right now Dark would settle for a split of a two-game series with the Minnesota Twins.

The surging Twins won the first game last night in 10 innings on a two-run home run by slugger Harmon Killebrew, his 13th of the season.

"Minnesota has really been playing outstanding baseball since the first of July or so," said Dark. "They really had things going July or so," said Dark. "They really had things going their way when they came to Oakland after the All-Star break. It's a good thing we took that series."

"We're still in this thing," he said. "What the hell, we're 9½ games back with 19 to go and we get to play the leaders."

Minnesota relief ace Bill Campbell pitched three strong relief innings and notched his eighth victory in 15 decisions.

"I've wanted to get back at Oakland," Campbell said. "They roughed me up pretty good a couple of times earlier in the season."

Campbell was particularly impressive in the 10th inning when he struck out Bert Campaneris and Reggie Jackson and got Joe Rudi on an infield pop-up.

Eric Soderholm's two-run double in the eighth inning boosted Minnesota into a 3-3 tie after solo home runs by Sal Bando and Rudi in the eighth gave the A's a temporary advantage.

Marin Tars Eye Crown In Cross Country

By dropping out of the Camino Norte Conference, West Valley Junior College may have put College of Marin in line for a championship in cross country.

The Tars of Kentfield have lost just one dual meet in each of the last three years — all to West Valley. In the conference meet last season, Marin lost the championship by two points — to West Valley.

"We're optimistic," says Tar coach Tony Bailey. "We feel we have a real good chance to win it this year with the new league alignment."

De Anza of Cupertino and Foothill of Los Altos have also left the CNC, while Merrit of Oakland and Los Medanos of Pittsburg have joined.

Marin welcomes back five runners, including last season's No. 2 man, Mike Killeen. He finished 13th in the 1973's northern California meet as Marin placed fifth and knocked West Valley out of a berth in the state meet.

Also returning are Kian McCarthy and Dan Turek, the Tars' No. 4 and 5 men last year, and Larry Butti. Letterman Eric Moeller suffered a punctured lung in a car accident last week, but he may see some action during the season.

Incoming freshmen expected to contribute are Tom Altamirano and Rich Gingrass from Terra Linda, Tom Murk and Dan Deneau from Redwood and marathon runner Ken Scalmanini from Novato.

"Of past performances I'd have to say that Santa Rosa and ourselves have the best chance," says Bailey. "We have the best records for the past two or three years, besides West Valley."

Marin opens the season Saturday in the Pebble Beach Invitational at Monterey against teams from throughout northern California. "It's hard to say how we'll do, but we hope to finish in the top three or four," Bailey says.

Debt Markets Offer Choices

By ROBER E. SPEAR & DAVID R. SARGENT

Q. We have $28,000 out of $50,000 in bank term-certificates coming due this fall. What short-term (four years or less), high interest rate instrument would you advise? M.M.

Q. I will shortly have $50,000 cash to invest. My objectives are maximum yield with safety and liquidity. What suggestions do you have? N.M. and J.B.

A. Under today's record interest rate conditions there are several investment choices which meet your aims. The particular choice depends on the proportion of emphasis you place on each of the three goals cited: income, safety, and liquidity. Treasury debt issues, which are tops for safety, do not offer as high a return as corporate notes and bonds. As far as liquidity is concerned, maturities on Treasury issues vary from three months for bills to 25 years for outstanding bond issues. In the shortest maturities, three-month T bills were recently auctioned to yield 9.9 per cent. This record interest rate reflected the competitiveness of the market for short-term capital.

Recently marketed floating rate notes, generally written on a 15-year basis (although redeemable at the holder's option after two years), do not guarantee the 9.7 per cent or 10 per cent interest rate for more than one to two years. After that time, the interest rate is tied to that of T-bills. This innovative type of unsecured debt security (which varies from one issue to another as to terms) is obviously less secure than U.S. government-backed debt instruments.

Short-term corporate bonds and notes range widely as to total return and safety. For example, Abex Corp. (a subsidiary of Illinois Central Indus.) 8¾s of 1977, which trade at a discount to yield 9.4 per cent currently and 11.4 per cent to maturity, are rated A by Standard & Poor's. As of March 31, 1974, interest and fixed charges were covered 5.8 times by earnings. On the other hand, AAA-rated Ford Motor Co. 7¼s of 1977 sell to yield 7.7 per cent currently and 9.7 per cent to maturity, with somewhat wider interest coverage. In view of the wide diversity of choices available to you, a package of Treasury, corporate and other debt instruments might be prudent.

Silver Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — Handy and Harman today quoted silver at $4.09 cents per fine ounce up 12.5 cents. Engelhard quoted silver bullion at $4.09 up 12.5 cents and fabricated silver at $4.192 up 12.8 cents.

Market Sag Triggered By Report

As the market opened, the Labor Department reported wholesale prices skyrocketed in August at an annual rate of 46.8 per cent. In July prices advanced at an annual rate of 44.4 per cent. Sharp increases in farm prices helped make the August figure the second biggest monthly rise since November, 1946.

Virtually all major stock groups softened, with the gold issues coming under heavy selling pressure in a continuation of the rush to dump these issues following a weekend sell suggestion by a major gold broker. ASA Ltd. plunged 7 ⅞, Dome Mines 4 ¾, and Campbell Red Lake 2 ⅝.

Among the blue chips, AT&T slipped ¼. AT&T said a Philadelphia court rejected its appeal on interconnections ordered by the Federal Communications Commission. The company noted the ruling will have a negative impact on cost and quality of telephone service.

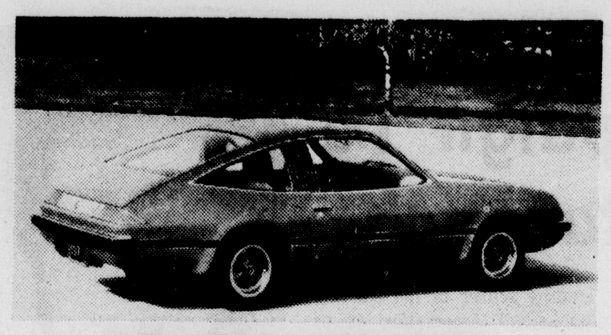

In the lower glamor sectors, IBM tumbled 5 ⅜. IBM yesterday announced a new line of terminals to permit additional peripheral equipment to serve a wider range of customers. Earlier in the week Sanders Associates said it plans to file an antitrust complaint against IBM for "monopolistic marketing practices."

BUSINESS BRIEFS

3 Corporations File Articles

An unusual one is Title Transfer Service, Inc., capitalized at $75,000. Its business, according to James B. McKenney of Kentfield, has filed the articles of incorporation, will be indexing of changes of ornwership in real property in Marin.

Peter C. Haywood, Mill Valley real estate developer who is listed as a director, said the company plans to offer service on property transfers for anyone interested. Principal clients, he suggested, will include banks, savings and loan institutions, and realty firms. He pointed out that the information is all of public record, but searching it out is time-consuming and many companies might prefer to subscribe to a regular service.

Haywood said an office location has not yet been selected nor an operating official named. He predicted operations will start in about two months.

Joy R. Cail of San Rafael is the third director, along with Haywood and McKenney.

Other newly filed articles of incorporation are those of Jandy Products at 27 Larkspur Street, San Rafael, an existing swimming pool products company which is being incorporated by Milo Whitney Smith with $75,000 capitalization, and Bel-Marin Auto Craft, being incorporated at $25,000 capitalization by Lynn W. Boyd, Charles D. Wilford and Alice Jensen to operate an auto body shop at an unspecified Marin location.

Stanford M. Pokras, management training consultant, will speak on "Sales Breakthrough: the Emotional Tone Scale," at next Tuesday's breakfast meeting of the Marin County Board of Realtors, at 8 a.m. at the Holiday Inn, Northgate.

Abbett

Farnham

PEOPLE — J. Conrad Abbett of San Rafael has been elected a director of Franklin Savings and Loan Association. He is vice president of Abbett Electric Corp. in San Francisco . . . Ben L. Farnham of Sausalito has been appointed divisional merchandise manager for women's dresses, coats, furs and uniforms in all five Capwell stores. He has been with the Emporium for 24 years, and most recently was assistant to the chairman of Emporium-Capwell Co.

Oshman's Reports Record Earnings

HOUSTON (BW) — Oshman's Sporting Goods Inc., which operates Stan's For Sports shops in Marin, reported record sales and earnings for the second quarter ended July 31.

Sales reached $12,876,122 compared with $10,893,406 for the like period last year, and net earnings were $638,019 compared with $578,470 for the previous year, reflecting gains of 18 per cent and 10 per cent respectively. Earnings per share were 20 cents compared with 18 cents last year.
